ACCLAIM THE KING

Albert Edward Takes the Oath of Sovereignty as Edward VII. ---People Cheer King.

CEREMONY AT PRIVY COUNCIL

London, Jan. 23.—3:03 p. m.—At the meeting of the privy council the king took the title of King Edward VII., king of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India.

The king took the oath of sovereignty and as he returned to the palace he was acclaimed by the immense throngs who lined the route of his carriage and were massed at the palace.

KING ENTERS HIS CAPITAL.

London, Jan. 23.—1 p. m.—The king-emperor entered his capital at 12:55 p. m. and proceeded to Marlborough house.

Dense crowds, beginning at St. James street, lined the entire route to Victoria station from an early hour. The mall and the front of Buckingham palace were especially thronged. All along the former, from the palace to Marlborough house, carriages filled with ladies stood as if for a drawing room, excepting that the coachmen, footmen and occupants were all dressed in mourning.

The police precautions were unusual. Men on foot and mounted guarded almost every yard of the way.

The crowds waited patiently for hours to greet their king. Finally, preceded by half a dozen mounted policemen, the new sovereign arrived in a plain brougham, which was driven very rapidly, with the coachman and footman in their usual gray liveries, with mourning bands on their arms.

An equerry was seated beside him. The king was, of couse, dressed in the despest and most simple mourning and carefully raised his hat in acknowledgment of the silent uncovering of heads, which was more impressive than the most enthusiastic cheers. The king looked tired and very sad, but well.

Following him came the duke of York, the duke of Connaught and others. Both the king and the duke of York looked pathetically up at Buckingham palace as they passed, and acknowledged the salute of the guard of honor drawn up inside the palace grounds.

The troops there and elsewhere showed no signs of mourning, except that the bands were not present, but all the officers had crape on their left sleeves.

FIRST PRIVY COUNCIL.

The king drove to St. James palace from Marlborough house to preside at the first privy council, by way of Marlborough house yard, the mall and the garden entrance of the palace. He was attended by Lord Suffield (who has been lord of the bedchamber to the prince of Wales since 1872) and was escorted by a captain's escort of the horse guards. The procedure was exactly as on levee days.

By the time the king arrived a great gathering of privy councillors in levee dress, with crape on their left arms, had taken up position in the throne room—cabinet ministers, peers, commoners, bishops, judges, the lord mayor, etc., including the duke of York, the duke of Connaught and lesser members of the royal family.

TO RECEIVE THE OATH.

Lord Salisbury, Lord Roseberry, A. J. Balfour, the duke of Devonshire, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, and a host of the most prominent personages in the land were there to receive the formal oath binding him to govern the kingdom according to its laws and customs and hear him assume the title of King Edward VII. of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India.

The ceremony was interesting and according to precedent. The king was in a separate apartment from the privy councillors. To the latter the duke of Devonshire, lord president of the council, formally communicated the death of Queen Victoria and the succession to the throne of her son, the prince of Wales. lords of the council, were then directed to repair to the king's presence to acquaint him with the terms of the lord president's statement. Shortly afterwards his majesty entered the room in which the councillors were assembled and addressed them in a brief speech. The chancellor (Lord Salisbury) then administered the oath of sovereignty to the king, as follows:

THE OATH OF SOVEREIGNTY.

Lord Chancellor—Is your majesty willing to take the oath?

The King—I am.

Lord Chancellor—Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the dominions thereto according to the statutes in parliament agreed on and the respective laws and customs of the same?

The King—I solemnly promise so to do.

Lord Chancellor—Will you to the utmost of your power cause law and justice in mercy to be executed in all your judgments?

The King—I will.

Lord Chancellor—Will you to the utmost of your power maintain the laws of God, the true profession of the gospel and the Protestant reformed religion established by law, and will you maintain and preserve inviolably the settlement of the united church of England and Ireland, and the doctrine, worship, discipline and government thereof, as by law established within England and Ireland and the territories thereunto belonging, and will you preserve unto the bishops and clergy of England and Ireland and to the churches there committed to their charge all such rights and privileges as by law do or shall pertain to them or any of them?

The King—All this I promise to do.

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE.

Afterwards the various members of the council, commencing with lords in council, took the oath of allegiance and then passed in turn before his majesty, as at a levee, excepting that each paused and kissed the king's hand before passing out of the chamber.

This brought the ceremony to a close.

By 3:30 p. m., when his majesty returned to Marlborough house, the crowd in the neighborhood was of immense proportions. The king's prior journey was accomplished in almost complete silence, but on this occasion he was lustily cheered all along the line of route.

Immediately opposite Marlborough house gates a tall gentleman in front of the crowd waved his hat and shouted, "Long live the king," whereupon the crowd cheered with redoubled vigor.

KING'S SPEECH BRIEF.

The king at the accession ceremony wore a military uniform. His brief speech was delivered with great earnestness and was quite extemporaneous. It is said it will be published later in official form.

EDWARD'S SPEECH.

King Edward, in his speech to the privy council, said he had decided to assume the title of King Edward VII. in accordance with the wish of his beloved mother, who, his majesty added, united the virtues of a supreme domestic guide with the affection and patriotism of a wide, peace-loving monarch. He had a respectful desire to leave the memory of his father's name, Albert, the exclusive treasure of his beloved mother. Notwithstanding his personal desire, he could not hope to do justice to the renown and virtues associated with Prince Albert's name, but he would do his utmost to be worthy of his great position.

At the last moment the king decided not to attend the house of lords today. The proclamation of the accession of his majesty was signed by the princes present, the duke of York first, then the duke of Connaught, the duke of Cambridge, Prince Christian, the archbishop of Canterbury, the lord chancellor, the lord mayor and the other representatives of the city of London.

ARTILLERY FIRES SALUTE.

At 4:30 p. m. the artillery began firing salutes in James park to signalize King Edward's accession to the throne.

Among the incidents of the day was an imposing civic procession. The lord mayor and aldermen, accompanied by the city marshal, mace bearer and other members of the corporation, escorted by a strong body of police, proceeded from the mansion house, by way of the Thames embankment and Trafalgar square, to St. James palace in gilded equipages, with liveried outriders, including twenty semi-state carriages, making a notable picture, which was witnessed by thousands of silent people who filled the sidewalks along the entire route.

ALLEGIANCE IS SWORN.

The house of lords and the house of commons assembled at 4 o'clock and took the oath of allegiance to the new sovereign.

The attendance in the house of commons was large. All the members, dressed in the deepest mourning, stood up as Speaker Gully entered and announced that by reason of the deeply-lamented decease of her majesty, Queen Victoria, it had become their duty to take the oath of allegiance to her successor, his majesty, King Edward VII.

The speaker then administered the oath and the swearing in of the members proceeded. Joseph Chamberlain, the secretary of state for the colonies; Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the chancellor of the exchequer; Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the liberal leader in the house, and Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, were the first to subscribe their names on the roll. In the house of lords the oath was taken by the duke of York, the duke of Connaught, Earl Roberts, Lord Rosebery, Lord Salisbury, the duke of Argyll, Lord Lansdowne and a hundred others.

The house of lords then adjourned until tomorrow.

ALL LONDON IN MOURNING.

London has donned a garb of mourning from end to end and an early hour found a thick fog enveloping the city like a pall, a fitting accompaniment of the funereal apparel of everyone. Throughout the west end drawn blinds are the order of the day, while on all the embassies, government offices and public buildings the flags are half-masted.

The law courts, the stock exchange and all the produce and metal exchanges throughout the country only assembled to close immediately after the presiding officers had addressed to the members a few words of tribute to the dead monarch.

There were exceptionally larger congregations in the churches in all parts of the country. At St. Paul's cathedral the prayers for the royal family were altered to read:

"For our sovereign lord, the king, and the queen consort."

All the services were ended by the playing of the dead march.

The various naval and military stations fired a salute of eighty-one guns at mid-day to signalize the death of the queen, one gun for each completed year of the queen's age.

The public buildings are being draped with black, the stores are displaying many signs of mourning and business is practically at a standstill.

SOME MEASURES IN PERIL

POLITICAL BILLS IN THE BALANCE.

Republicans May Not Make the Fort Wayne Charter Bill a Caucus Measure.

[Special to The Sentinel.]

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—The Press this afternoon says:

"The fate of several republican political measures now before the legislature is in the balance. It is not even certain that the Fort Wayne police bill will be made a caucus measure."

Both houses of the legislature today adopted resolutions deploring the death of Queen Victoria and paying tribute to her worth.

The senate killed the bill allowing county councils to fix the number of days assessors and surveyors shall work. A resolution asking congress to employ Bedford stone in the new Indianapolis federal building will be the special order tomorrow.

L. J. Crane, of Elkhart, is at the New Aveline.

ARE LEAGUED IN POLITICS

SENATOR RAWLINS, OF UTAH, CAUSES SENSATION.

OTHER SENATORS PROTEST

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL AGAIN TAKEN UP.

Washington, Jan. 23.—A spirited incident occurred in the senate this afternoon when the legislative bill was taken up. Mr. Rawlins, of Utah, read a newspaper article saying there was a combination formed in the Utah legislature to elect a Mr. Kearns senator and that it was being forwarded by the Mormon church, which was now working with the republican party. He intimated that the church had received certain promises from the republicans in relation to the practice of polygamy and he said he thought a voice should go out from Washington in condemnation of the proceeding.

Mr. Hale, of Maine, replied to Mr. Rawlins vigorously. He said there ought not to be any expression of the United States senate upon a matter like a senatorial election. It was highly improper to send a "voice from Washington" while a legislature was performing its constitutional duty. It was paternalism of the worst sort.

Mr. Chandler, of New Hampshire, also took occasion to say that he thought the action of Mr. Rawlins was not in good taste and that the senate should not attempt to influence a state legislature.

In a reply Mr. Rawlins criticised the action of the legislature of New Hampshire, where Mr. Chandler was defeated, and said the result was, according to Mr. Chandler's statement, brought about by combinations similar to those proposed in Utah.

Mr. Chandler smilingly retorted that while the result in New Hampshire was greatly to be deplored and the methods of the late senatorial election in that state were to be condemned, yet it would have been very bad taste if his colleague (Mr. Gallinger) had made a protest while the election was going on.

This allusion, owing to the well known differences existing between the New Hampshire senators, raised a laugh among senators and the galleries. The senate then continued the consideration of the appropriation bill.

The blind chaplain, Mr. Milburn, in his opening invocation in the senate today, referred beautifully and touchingly to the death of Queen Victoria. At the conclusion of routine business, consideration was resumed of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, the pending question being the amendment of Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, providing for the appointment of an assistant attorney general to represent the government in all matters of claims pending before congress.

THE BILL PASSES.

At 2:30 p. m. the senate passed the legislative bill and on motion of Mr. Frye the ship subsidy bill was taken up.

There was a viva voice vote, but no roll call.

Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, called attention to the Indian appropriation bill, which had been reported, which remained for the senate to consider and which contained much debatable matter. Mr. Jones thought the Indian bill should therefore be considered.

IN THE HOUSE.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The blind chaplain of the house, in his invocation today, referred feelingly to the death of Queen Victoria.

Without intervening business the house immediately resumed the consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill.

WELL KNOWN RECTOR DIES.

Philadelphia, Jan. 23.—Rev. Wm Wallace Silvester, rector of the George W. South Memorial Protestant Episcopal Church of the Advocate, died last night at his home in this city. Death was due to heart trouble, with which he had been a sufferer since Christmas. Rev. Silvester was one of the most widely known clergymen in the Episcopal church. He was born in Danvers, Mass., sixty-seven years ago and after his ordination in 1868 had charges in various parts of New England, subsequently receiving a call to Davenport, Iowa, and then to St. Louis. Thirteen years ago he came to this city.

THE WORLD EXPRESSES ITS SORROW.

Bombay, Jan. 23.—All public functions here have been cancelled, the public offices have been closed and business has been suspended. The genuine sorrow of the natives is extraordinarily marked, even the poorest and most ignorant expressing the utmost regret and profound sorrow. It is a remarkable revelation of sincere loyalty. Special services have been arranged to take place in the native places of worship.

Berlin, Jan. 23.—The court has been ordered to go into mourning for four weeks. The empress has arrived at Homburg and proceeded to the royal castle, in order to be near Dowager Empress Frederick.

Colombo, Ceylon, Jan. 23.—The deepest sympathy with the royal family on the death of Queen Victoria is felt throughout this island. The flags are half-masted, all functions have been postponed and business is suspended.

Melbourne, Victoria, Jan. 23.—Business is entirely suspended here as a result of the death of Queen Victoria, and the deepest grief is manifested. There are signs of mourning everywhere.

Amsterdam, Jan. 23.—The newspapers here are full of respectful sympathy with Great Britain, but the views of the political aspect of the death of Queen Victoria are largely influenced by the prevailing sentiment concerning the South African war. The Handelsblad says:

"The end of her pacific reign was obscured by the shadow of war and insurrection, and, alas, finishes with an unjust war against little people, which is all the more humiliating, as England has not conquered the Afrikanders. The queen dies profoundly regretted by her people, whose great love and respect she merited, but the end of her reign was stigmatized by the most unjust war of the century. Victoria, fulfilling in the noblest manner her duty, twice prevented the war. But, as an octogenarian, she no longer had her former power and will, and the republics were forced into a war which has deprived England of all moral prestige. The monetary markets of the world instinctively feel that the ministers of King Edward cannot count on the patience of Emperor William and the czar, who avoided everything which might render the queen's last days unhappy. Consequently, her death will evidently have a great bearing on the future of England, which is sombre."

The Telegraaf says:

"Poor queen, upon whom the Nemesis of history will avenge the crime of her ministers, which she could not prevent."

New York, Jan. 23.—A dispatch to the world from Rome says:

The pope, who has been kept constantly informed of the condition of the queen, received the news of her death through Cardinal Rampolla, His Eminence said not a word, but dropped on his knees to pray, remaining in this attitude for a considerable time. Afterward he gave orders that in all churches prayers for the queen be offered up tomorrow. The pope will be represented at the funeral by Cardinal Vaughn.

Christina, Jan 23.—The president of parliament, referring to Queen Victoria's death today, said he felt assured of the support of all the members in expressing sympathy with Great Britain's grief at the loss of her popular queen. The members listened standing.

Vienna, Jan. 23.—Emperor Francis Joseph went to the British embassy this morning and personally expressed his sympathy to Lord and Lady Plunkett. He remained there half an hour. The duke of Cumberland called at the embassy and many of the nobility and court dignitaries inscribed their names.

Lisbon, Jan. 23.—The papers of this city publish lengthy eulogies of Queen Victoria and renew their expressions of sympathy with England, "a friendly and allied nation." They speak of the brilliant qualities of the new king.

King Charles intends to attend the funeral of Queen Victoria personally. Court mourning for a month has been ordered.

The papers are filled with eulogistic articles on Victoria and her reign.

HOUSE OF MOURNING

The Royal Residence at Osborn Is Quiet and Somber as Queen Lies There.

HOUSEHOLD SEES DEAD RULER

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Jan. 23.—Events have shifted from Cowes to London. Osborne is a house of mourning and Cowes is probably the quietest place in the United Kingdom today. The king departed early. After him followed the army of officials and newspaper correspondents.

The king's departure was as unostentatious as that of an American president. He and his suite, in civilian attire, left the castle without a military escort and with no sign of pomp.

Queen Victoria's body was embalmed last evening and occupies the center of the dining room, which is hung with trappings of mourning.

Outside two officers are on guard. Within two Indian attendants remain in company with the ladies in waiting, who are constantly present.

The body is robed in black. The face is perfectly peaceful and the remains have been placed with the arms folded.

On the breast rests a beautiful gold cross. The head is inclined slightly to the right. All about repose quantities of beautiful flowers.

The honor of first seeing the body of the queen was conferred on her personal retinue, and such a simple pathetic scene as marked the afternoon could hardly have occurred in any other monarchy.

All the servants and tenants were admitted. The footmen, housemaids, coachmen, stable lads and policemen, dressed in their Sunday clothes, filed through the room for four hours.

There were no formalities. It might have been the body of any country lady, whose tenants were bidding her a last farewell. Bent old men, children and families who had grown up on the estate, who regarded Queen Victoria as a friend and patron rather than as a sovereign, took their turn, and their grief was the sorrow of those who had lost a friend.

In the meantime, many residents of Cowes and neighboring towns and some prominent people applied at the porter's lodge for admission, but they were told to come tomorrow.

There is no mistaking the reality of the sorrow of Cowes.

"The queen was always so good to us," they say. She knew personally many of the townspeople and took real interest in their families, their troubles and their joys. She could call many of them by name and often stopped in her drives to talk to them. Almost every house has a half-masted flag and the store windows are draped with black and white.

GLOOMY AIR AT COWES.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Jan. 23.—8:30 a. m.—The morning opened dull and threatening, and the town bears a miserable aspect.

Everywhere the blinds are drawn and black is displayed. There is scarcely a sign of life anywhere except at Trinity pier, where there is constant interchange of signals between the royal yacht Alberta, which lies alongside the pier, and the yacht Osborne, aboard of which some members of the royal family still remain.

A message just received from Osborne house says Emperor William's plans are as yet not known, but it is believed that he will not leave today. The Alberta had steam up all night and now has a big awning fixed in readiness to proceed to Portsmouth at 9:40 o'clock with the king, the duke of York, Mr. Balfour, and the earl of Clarendon on board to catch a special train for London at 11 o'clock.

The royal yacht Alberta has received orders to be in readiness to convey the queen's remains to the mainland.

The transfer of her majesty's body will, it is believed, take place soon.

The coffin will be placed on the main deck, athwart ships, just in front of the structure known as the "Queen's canopy," where her majesty was in the habit of sitting during her trips on the yacht.

The coffin will be placed on a spot marked on the deck with a brass cross, where the coffin of Prince Henry of Battenberg also rested.

THE KING LEAVES COWES.

The king and the duke of York will return to Osborn house tonight. The route from Osborne house to Trinity pier was deserted except for a few groups of bare headed persons when, at 9:40 o'clock, three open carriages, drawn by white horses, galloped down the hill.

In the first carriage were the king, the duke of Connaught, the duke of York and Prince Christian. The king looked well and bowed repeatedly in acknowledgment of the greetings of his subjects. The royal personages immediately embarked on the Alberta.

The royal standard was hoisted as the king touched the deck. As the Alberta started off signals were shown ordering that no salutes should be fired.

The crews of the cruiser Australia and the other royal yachts were mustered as the Alberta steamed by. The commencement of the king's first voyage was a memorable and impressive event.

WILL GO TO WINDSOR.

Unless the king otherwise directs, it is probable that the queen's body will be taken on board the royal yacht Alberta tomorrow for conveyance to Windsor. In the meanwhile the dining room at Osborne house has been transformed into a mortuary chapel. The body has been removed from the bedroom and lies there at present. The servants will be admitted to view the remains.

There will be, however, nothing in the nature of lying in state here, nor, so far as known at Cowes, will there be any public lying in state at Windsor.

A guard of royal reservists is watching the body.

The arrangements for the obsequies will be made at the privy council, after a consultation with the king.

Orders have been sent to Windsor to prepare the apartments for royal arrivals.

KING DELAYS RETURN.

The king and other members of the royal family will not return to Osborne until tomorrow. The officers of the all the royal yachts, the servants and tenantry had a last glimpse of the remains of the queen this afternoon.

It is now thought improbable that the body will be removed before Friday. A service will be held tomorrow for the royal family and the household in the chapel at Osborne.

Emperor William has ordered in London two magnificent wreaths, with broad ribbons bearing the initials of himself and the empress, which he personally will place on the queen's coffin at the services tomorrow. By a special request of the family the authorities of St. Paul's Cathedral have sent to Osborne the six candelabra used at the funeral of the duke of Wellington.

ROYALTY WILL GATHER.

New York, Jan. 23.—A dispatch to the World from London says:

All the royalty of Europe will gather at the funeral of Queen Victoria.

The assemblage will be unprecedented, because her majesty was closely related to the European courts, big and little.

The queen will in all probability be buried within ten days at Frogmore mausoleum, which she erected over the prince consort in Windsor park.

In former days a month would be allowed to elapse between the death and the burial of the sovereign.

For one day the body of the queen will lie in state in Waterloo chamber, Windsor castle. The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock at night, with the utmost pomp and ceremony, in St. George's chapel. In addition to the emperor of Germany, it is expected that the kings of Denmark, Greece, Belgium, Servia, Saxony and Portu-

NEW TAXES IN FRANCE.

Frenchmen, and Parisians in particular, are much concerned in the sweeping changes in taxation which have marked the birth of the new century, says a Paris correspondent. While no octroi tax will in future be imposed on wine, beer, perry and cider and such like beverages, yet those who drink alcoholic liquors will have to pay more for them—Frenchmen for their absinthe and brandy and the Englishmen in France for their whisky; the latter drink has been increased to the extent of fivepence a bottle.

No octroi tax will be paid on nonintoxicating beverages entering Paris, a small city in the department Jura, but any citizen importing a drink must pay eight shillings. It seems that the unmusical inhabitants have demanded the change.

Miss Edith Corcoran very pleasantly entertained the members of the E. T. W. club at her home last evening at progressive euchre. Prizes were won by Mrs. Owen Corcoran and Frank Saltier and the consolations were won by Miss Frances Corcoran and Mr. Steadman.

BRYAN'S PAPER

THE FIRST ISSUE OF THE COMMONER OUT.

IT HAS NEAT APPEARANCE

WHY MR. BRYAN CHOSE THE NAME FOR IT.

THE EDITORIAL SALUTATORY

HOPES TO MERIT THE NAME OF COMMONER.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 23.—The first number of "The Commoner," the weekly paper published by William J Bryan, was issued this afternoon It is a neat-appearing sheet, typographically. The following is the salutatory:

THE COMMONER

Webster defines a commoner as "one of the common people." The name has been selected for this paper because The Commoner will endeavor to aid the common people in the protection of their rights, the advancement of their interests and the realization of their aspirations.

It is not necessary to apologize for the use of a term which distinguishes the great body of the population from the comparatively few, who, for one reason or another, withdraw themselves from sympathetic connection with their fellows. Among the Greeks "Hoi polloi" was used to describe the many, while among the Romans the word "plebs" was employed for the same purpose. These appellations, like "the common people," have been assumed with pride by those to whom they were applied, while they have been used as terms of reproach by those who counted themselves among the aristocratic classes. Within recent years there has been a growing tendency in some quarters to denounce as demogogic any reference to, or praise of, the common people

One editor in a late issue of his paper takes exception to the phrase and says.

"This expression is an ill-chosen one and should have no lodgment in the vocabulary of an American patriot and statesman. If we sought its origin, we would look for it in that specious demagogy which has evolved the professional politician, arrayed country against town—the farmer and his sons and daughters against the business and professional men and their sons and daughters—capital against labor, and built up against neighbors the impregnable barriers of prejudice and hate."

This quotation is reproduced because it fairly represents the views of those who criticize the expression. It has, however, an eminently respectable origin. In the same chapter in which Christ condensed man's duty to his fellows into the commandment "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself;" in the same chapter in which he denounced those who devour widow's houses and for a pretense make long prayers—in this same chapter it is said of Him: "The common people heard Him gladly."

No higher compliment was ever paid to any class.

The term, the common people, is properly used to describe the large majority of the people—those who earn their living and give to society a fair return for the benefits bestowed by society—those who in their daily lives recognize the ties which bind together the mass of the people who have a common lot and a common hope. Sometimes they are called "the middle classes" because paupers and criminals are excluded on the one hand, while on the other hand some exclude themselves because of wealth or position or pride of birth The common people form the industrious, intelligent and patriotic element of our population; they produce the nation's wealth in time of peace and fight the nation's battles in time of war They are self-reliant and independent; they ask of government nothing but justice, and will not be satisfied with less. They are not seeking to get their hands into other people's pockets, but are content if they can keep other people's hands out of their pockets.

The common people do not constitute an exclusive society—they are not of the four hundred; any one can become a member if he is willing to contribute by brain or muscle to the nation's strength and greatness. Only those are barred and they are barred by their own choice—who imagine themselves made of a superior kind of clay and who deny the equality of all before the law

A rich man, who has honestly acquired his wealth and who is not afraid to intrust its care to laws made by his fellows, can count himself among the common people, while a poor man is not really not one of them if he fawns before a plutocrat and has no higher ambition than to be a courtier or a sycophant.

The Commoner will be satisfied if, by fidelity to the common people, it proves its right to the name which it has chosen.

Fenwick Reed preached one of the strongest sermons yet heard and it made a deep impression on the audience The growing interest is very apparent. More instructive or faithful preaching has not been heard lately in Fort Wayne. The service this evening begins at 7 30

SCALD WAS FATAL

DEATH OF LITTLE THELMAR SHOEMAKER.

FELL INTO BOILER OF WATER

SAD AFFAIR IN A BUCHANAN STREET HOME.

PARENTS WERE BOTH ABSENT

LITTLE ONE LINGERS IN HOURS OF SUFFERING.

Thelmar, the little daughter of Mr and Mrs. Frank Shoemaker, of 314 Buchanan street, died at 1 o'clock this morning as the result of a distressing accident at the home just before noon on Tuesday. The mother was absent at the time, having gone to the depot to meet a sister, who was coming to make her a visit. Left at home was the little daughter, three years of age, in charge of its grandmother.

The little one was in a room adjoining the kitchen when the grandmother lifted a wash boiler of nearly boiling water from the stove and placed it upon the floor. She left the room for a moment, but was soon recalled by the screams of the little one, who had scampered across the room and fallen into the boiler of steaming hot water. The grandmother dragged the little one from the water, and a physician was hurriedly summoned.

It was found that the entire right side of the little girl, from her foot to her shoulder, had been scalded in a frightful manner, so deeply that the skin dropped in great patches from the flesh. The burn was so extensive that medical skill was powerless to avert fatal consequences, and the babe died after more than twelve hours of suffering, retaining consciousness until within a few minutes of her death. The father of the little one, Frank Shoemaker, is a cigarmaker and is employed at Kendallville.

The remains will be shipped to Auburn, the former home of the family, at noon tomorrow.

THE WORK OF THE COUNCIL

MAYOR'S ILLNESS CAUSED HIS ABSENCE.

Important Matters Fixed for Attention Were Postponed Until His Honor is Present

The city council met in regular session last evening Owing to the illness of the mayor and his consequent absence, Councilman Bauer presided. It was expected that the reports of the various city departments would be read last night, together with the mayor's annual message, but the presentation of all these was postponed until such time as the mayor could be in attendance. The committee on rules was not yet ready to report on the electrical inspector ordinance and the matter was passed for the time. The committee on finance and the city attorney made a report on the communication of Comptroller Berghoff relating to the investment of idle city funds in improvement bonds. They recommended the investment of the electric light fund in city improvement bonds, but reported unfavorably on a similar investment of the sinking fund, having serious doubt of the legality of such a proceeding. After some discussion led by Mr. Hosey, the report of the committee was concurred in and the money named will be invested so as to bring a revenue to the city. The only other matter of consequence was a communication from the waterworks trustees asking to have a contract with the Shaw-Kendall company for a further test of the compressed air system ratified, and further asking permission to drill another ten-inch well at the north side station. They also wanted permission to drill a number of deep rock wells in case the compressed air system should prove a failure. The council went into committee of the whole to discuss the water question. The result of the secret deliberations was that orders to drill a 400 to 600-foot rock well were given, but the additional well supply was held in abeyance, as the council does not wish to anticipate a failure of the compressed air system. The contract with the Shaw-Kendall company was ratified.

ERECT AN ACADEMY THIS YEAR

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING FOR ST. PATRICK'S PARISH.

Increasing Number of Scholars Makes Additional Room Necessary

On account of the rapidly increasing number of pupils in St. Patrick's school, there being now over 400, and the limited accommodations of the school, it has become necessary to have more room, and Rev J. F. Delaney has decided to erect a new school building this summer.

While no definite plans have been made as yet, it is understood that the academy will be a substantial brick structure, three stories in height, and capable of accommodating a large number of girls who are at present attending the other school. The new school will be for girls only, and it will be built in the rear of the church and facing on DeWald street. The new academy will necessitate the addition of five sisters to the present teaching staff.

A considerable part of the necessary funds is on hand and no difficulty will be experienced in raising the remainder Work on the new structure will commence as soon as the frost is out of the ground, and it is expected that it will be ready for occupation when school opens in September.

MORE SMALLPOX REPORTED.

Dr Carl Schilling reported two new cases of smallpox in the family of Mrs. Mary J Boland at 92 West Superior street The board of health ordered cards placed on the building and the house and family quarantined

GROWTH OF UNITED STATES.

The United States is now in population the second white man's country in the world, Russia being first. But, even with our declining rate of increase, we are growing much more rapidly than Russia. Our population now is a trifle more than hers was forty years ago. In the thirty-eight years between 1859 and 1897 Russia's population grew from 74,000,000 to 129,000,000—an increase of 74 per cent Of this at least 7,000,000 must be credited to annexations. In the forty years between 1860 and 1900 we have grown from 31,443,321 to 76,295,220, an increase of 142 per cent., and this in spite of a destructive civil war and with practically no help from annexed territory

The present population of those parts of the British empire in which the white inhabitants are not lost among a vast mass of colored natives is estimated at about 53,000,000 Germany has about 55,000,000. No other white man's country in the world has much over half our population. Canada, which is sometimes spoken of as a rival of the United States on this continent, has fewer inhabitants, by a wide margin, than either New York or Pennsylvania.—Saturday Evening Post.

Nearly 1,200 boys and girls are licensed by the city council of Liverpool to sell newspapers, matches, bootlaces, etc., upon the streets. KING EDWARD VII. OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND

Albert Edward, prince of Wales, who by the death of his mother, Victoria, has become Edward VII., king of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India, received the name Albert after his father and Edward after the duke of Kent, his grandfather. The prince was born in Buckingham palace November 9, 1841. The title of duke of Cornwall fell upon him at birth, he being the oldest son of the ruler, and he was made prince of Wales and earl of Chester before he had lived a month. The other titles that fell upon this son of royalty were the duke of Rothesay, duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, prince of Saxony, earl of Carrick, earl of Dublin, Baron Renfrew and lord of the Isles.

The baptism was performed in St. George's chapel, Windsor, with great ceremony in January, 1842, and the early education of the child who was heir to the throne was intrusted to Lady Lyttleton, a sister to Mrs. Gladstone. Lady Lyttleton cared for the mental training of the prince, as well as the royal children who followed him, until he was six years old. The following year Rev. Henry Mildren Birch was appointed tutor and served until 1851, when he was succeeded for seven years by Frederick W. Gibbs. Later the prince took a course of study in Edinburgh, and was an undergraduate in Trinity college, Cambridge, in 1861. On his eighteenth birthday he was made a colonel in the army, with Colonel Bruce as his governor. He received the Order of the Garter on the same day.

FIRST OFFICIAL APPEARANCE.

The first official appearance of the young prince was at the opening of the coal exchange in London October 30, 1849 The queen was detained by sickness and was represented by the prince and the princess royal. He also assisted in the opening of the exposition in 1851, and was present with the queen at the house of lords for the first time when the answers to her message announcing the opening of the Crimean war were read.

The prince of Wales has traveled extensively. At the age of seven he journeyed to Ireland for the first time, and in 1855 visited Paris with his parents and the princess royal. With his tutor, Mr. Gibbs, and Colonel Clavendish, the prince walked through the western part of England incognito when fourteen years old, and later visited for some time in Germany. Many journeys to all parts of the continent were taken, the prince generally going incognito under the name of Baron Renfrew.

VISITS AMERICA

The prince decided to visit Canada and the United States in 1860. Arriving at St. John's, he visited Niagara Falls and traveled west to Chicago, where he was met enthusiastically, although he followed his custom of using the name of Baron Renfrew. The prince went from Chicago to St. Louis and arrived in Washington late in October, where he met President Buchanan and spent several days in the white house. He visited Washington's tomb, Philadelphia, Richmond, New York and Albany In Boston he was introduced to Longfellow, Holmes and Emerson He sailed home from Portland, Maine. The following year he again traveled on the continent of Europe and later spent some time in Egypt and the holy land

MARRIAGE AND FAMILY.

While on this visit to Europe the prince of Wales met the Princess Alexandra of Denmark, and their betrothal was announced September 9, 1862. The wedding ceremony took place in St. George's chapel at Windsor March 10 of the following year, and the prince and his wife furnished an establishment at Sandringham. Prince George of Wales was the first child, born in 1865.

Ireland received a visit from the prince and his wife five years after they were married, and in 1868 they traveled extensively through the east, returning through Russia. The prince made his memorable visit to India in 1875.

The death of William I. of Germany caused the celebration of the prince and princess' anniversary to be a quiet one. The eldest daughter, Princess Louise, was married to the earl of Fife in 1889. The prince figured as a witness in the famous baccarat case in 1891. The Princess Maud of Wales was married to Prince Charles of Denmark in 1894.

DEVOTED TO SPORT.

For many years Albert Edward has been a champion of outdoor sport, and each year his stable carries away a list of the most costly prizes offered by the English turf. In 1900 he headed the list of winning owners, gaining the "triple crown" by capturing the Derby, the St. Leger and the two thousand guineas races His winnings for the season amounted to $148,000. Horse racing is his principal pastime and his influence has done much to make the English turf freer from fraud than that of any other racing country in the world.

FAVORS ALLIANCE.

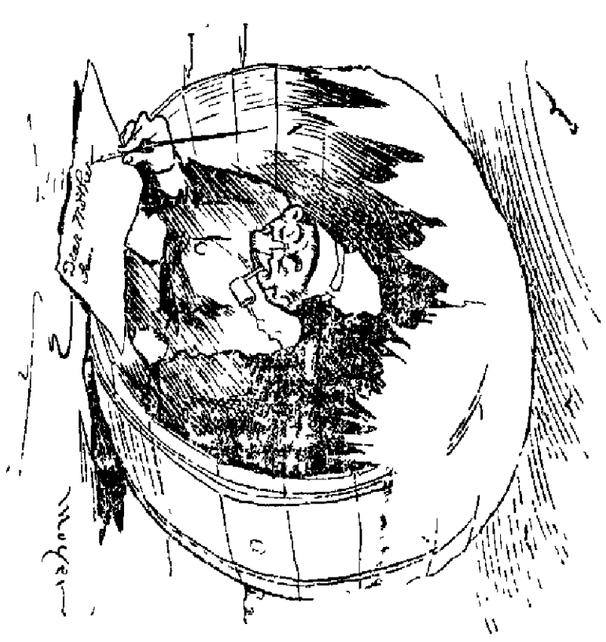
While he spends much time in the interest of his stable, there is no one more interested in national affairs than he, and he is a frequent visitor at the house of lords. His attitude on public questions has rarely been expressed, and even those most intimate with him are not able to tell with certainty his position on affairs of state. He has shown, however, that he inherits his mother's desire to form closer compacts with the United States and his influence has helped Americans to gain admission to English society.

MOST PROMINENT MASON.

Edward VII. is the most prominent living Free Mason. He is grand master of the grand lodges of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, and is also grand prior of the order of Knights Templar in England and grand patron of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Free Masonry in the United kingdom, having received the thirty-third and last degree in that branch of Free Masonry.

For more than thirty-two years he has been identified with the Masonic order. There is not a member throughout th world who takes a deeper or more active interest in its welfare. In the exalted position which he occupies by reason of his royal station and his high office in Masonry, he fully exemplifies through his personal contact with his Masonic brethren when visiting the various bodies with which he is affiliated the equality upon which all free masons stand when meeting as such, social lines being relaxed to a remarkable degree. Masonry everywhere receives his hearty and unqualified support and his presence at important Masonic functions is always sought for and usually with success.

He has long been acknowledged the social leader of England, and for years his will has set the style for men of dress and fashion. Of late years it is said his toilet does not receive the time and thought that it once did.



ECONO MICAL.

Dear Mother:—My birthday will soon be here, and as I write this I sit with my window open. Think of doing this in New York in January.

The state authorities of Delaware are inclined to abolish the whipping post for offenders, though there are several objections in the official circle. The people in the rural districts are, however, in favor of it, as they believe that the small percentage of burglaries and similar offenses in the state is due to the cat-o'-nine-tails infliction. It seems as if the whipping post was planted among the blue hen's chickens to stay.

He finds solace in the fact that Mr. McCulloch can afford to lose his hogs without embarrassment, but deplores the rapacity of the officers who took away from him his winter supply of meat. CAMP AND FOOD.

Getting Close to Nature.

It would hardly seem possible to some people that a man could, on food, cure himself of tuberculosis. "I was sent by my doctor to camp in the mountains and to live largely on Grape-Nuts food. My case was pronounced tuberculosis of the bladder by a famous New York specialist, the best authority of all American specialists in that line.

"I went into camp and used Grape-Nuts as I would meat, bread or potatoes. I was careful not to over-eat, but used the food three times a day, and at the end of 10 weeks went for a new examination, when not a trace of tuberculosis could be found. My physician looked at me and said, 'I don't believe there is such a marvelous case as this on record.'

"Both the doctor and myself give the credit to Grape-Nuts food. To be sure, I took outdoor exercise, and this no doubt helped me some, but with all the outdoor air and exercise in the world I could not build up my blood to a condition where it would kill off the bacilli unless I had good food of the character of Grape-Nuts to do it on. For family reasons I wish to avoid having my name appear in public print." Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., will furnish this name upon application.

GIRL STOLE A HORSE.

Columbia City, Ind., Jan. 23.—Miss Maud Leach, sixteen years of age, is in jail here in default of $300 bonds to answer to the charge of horse stealing. The girl is a daughter of Sylvanus Leach, and has been incorrigible for some time. She kept house for two old bachelors who reside near Luther, but Monday packed her clothing and left unceremoniously. She was walking to South Whitley when she was overtaken by Mrs. Allen Pence, who invited her to get in her buggy and ride to town. This the girl did, and some hours later unhitched the horse from the rack and drove out of town. After an all-night search she was located by officers at Packerton. She was arrested and taken to South Whitley, and when asked by the sheriff why she had stolen the horse replied: "Just to have a good time, and you bet I had it."

Mrs. Nation seems determined to keep up the reputation of Kansas as the best place on earth to raise something besides wheat and corn.

An experimental crop of broom corn has proved so successful in Florida that the product of thirty-one acres is valued at $3,000. The people of the south, and especially Florida, are fast learning that it is unwise to put all their eggs in one basket. Diversified farming is being made to pay in that section and it may be attributed very largely to the good advice received from the north.

This will be an "off year" in politics, so far as general elections are concerned, but it will be a big year for municipal contests of far-reaching importance. Philadelphia will set the ball a-rolling by voting for a number of important officers next month. Chicago will follow in the spring, at which time several other cities will hold important elections, and finally New York and the bulk of the cities will wind up with contests in the fall that promise to be unusually exciting.

German census figures show that the movement of population cityward has been much more marked in that country in the last five years than in the United States. All the big cities of the German empire show a heavy increase in population, ranging from 10 to 60.6 per cent., during the last five years. That American cities have not grown at so rapid a rate is probably due to the greater degree of perfection reached in suburban transportation in this country. To be quite fair the population of a city should be based upon its "sphere of influence" and not upon the number of persons residing within its political boundaries. If such a system were adopted the growth of American cities would probably be found to be enormous.

BRITAIN'S KING.

Albert Edward ascends the British throne as Edward VII. with a difficult role to fill aside from the natural responsibilities of the hereditary ruler of the empire. Doubtless he will prove to be a monarch of kingly parts. He has reached a later stage of life, he is intimate with the affairs of his realm and its interrelations with the governments of the world, he has good mental poise, he has the esteem and very likely the affections of his subjects, and above all he has the immediate example of his late mother's long and successful reign. His acquaintance is wider than that of any other living monarch. He is popular at every court in Europe. He is familiar with the trend and with the intricacies of old world policies and new world aspirations. He takes up the scepter well equipped in his own royal person to wield it. He will no doubt wield it happily for his house and for his people. Yet his task is difficult. There are few of his subjects old enough to not associate the headship of the state with "the queen." Victoria reigned sixty-four years. It will be a long time before Edward's subjects are able to comport their minds naturally to the great change death has wrought. The sentiment that for more than three score years done homage to the great and good queen will unconsciously pay that homage still. It will be difficult to realize that Edward and not Victoria wears the crown.

King Edward's rule will no doubt be pleasing and prosperous. He has a natural conservatism and to an eminent degree the tact so essential to the tranquillity of royal heads. Whether or not he has the capacity and taste for the labors of state that in so marked a degree distinguished his royal mother remains to be seen. The character of his reign will be determined largely by his purpose to be ruler or merely a crowned and sceptered figurehead.

CARRIED TOO FAR.

The Fear of Being Deceived or Humbugged Prevents Many People From Trying a Good Medicine.

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such people pride themselves on their acuteness in never being humbugged, especially in medicine.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made for a remedy so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary patent medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine; no secret is made of the ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin (government test) Golden Seal and diastase. They are not cathartic neither do they act powerfully on any particular organ, but they cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten, thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles, because they act only on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals, digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food, not digested or half-digested is poison, as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh and appetite and many other troubles, which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere in the United States, Great Britain and Canada.

RURAL DELIVERY SIGNALS.

The rural carriers are governed by the same rules as the carriers of the city delivery service; they wear the same uniform, provided at their own cost, and each has furnished himself with a special delivery wagon with "Postal Wagon—U. S. Mail" printed on the front and sides, with a glass front, and is fitted up with pigeonholes, in which the carrier sorts his mail as he goes along. There is also a contrivance for heating the wagon in cold weather. All the boxes along the routes are of galvanized iron, of uniform size, painted and closely resembling the regulation boxes used in cities, and are nailed on posts of such height as to bring them to a level with the postal wagon. As he drives up alongside the box the carrier opens his sliding door and drops the mail in the box, at the same time raising a zinc signal which is riveted to the box. If there is any mail for him to collect he finds this signal raised; if he has none to deliver in return he turns the signal down. If the signal is not raised, and he has no mail to deliver at the box, he drives by without stopping.—Pearson's Magazine.

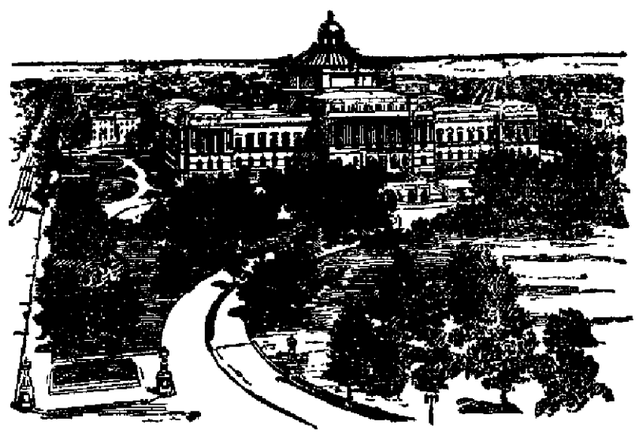
THE ARCHITECT

Of the World's Finest Library Building Recommends Peruna for Catarrh.



CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Hon. I. S. Smithmeyer, architect of the new Congressional Library of Washington, D. C., ranks first in his profession in this country. This library is considered the finest building in the United States. Mr. Smithmeyer spent sixteen years traveling in Europe working on the plans, and Congress appropriated six million dollars for this building.

In a letter written from Washington and dated July 4th, 1899, to The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O., Mr. Smithmeyer says the following in regard to Peruna, the world-renowned catarrh cure:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 4, 1899.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—I endorse the good opinion expressed by Senators and Representatives in Congress regarding the curative qualities of your compound. Those who have used it recommend it as an excellent tonic which is particularly effective as a cure for catarrh.

Respectfully,
I. S. Smithmeyer.

One of the most wonderful events in the history of medicine is the multitude of remarkable endorsements which Peruna is receiving as a catarrh cure from men and women of national importance. During the past two years a large number of people well known from ocean to ocean, have in glowing words of unstinted praise made Peruna the most famous and justly celebrated catarrh remedy in the world.

Men high in our national councils, statesmen known the world over, distinguished officers in the army and navy, physicians, lawyers, preachers, and last but not least, an innumerable company of people in the common walks of life, have all joined to place Peruna on the highest pedestal of honor that any remedy has ever reached in the history of medicine.

There can be no further question that Peruna is the catarrh remedy of the age. It has no rival. There are no substitutes. Peruna stands alone as a systemic catarrh cure which will cure catarrh in all phases and stages.

Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh. Sent free by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

FUEL GAS IN ENGLAND.

In the next session of parliament power is to be sought for the carrying out of a huge scheme for the manufacture and supply of fuel gas in the Midlands. The gas, which is called Mond gas, after its inventor, Dr. Ludwig Mond, is produced from a cheap form of bituminous coal, or slack, suitable for use in large gas engines; and it is reported that by means of power obtained in this way electricity can be generated for less than one-twentieth of a penny per unit. From particulars which have been published in the Gas World it appears that the charge for the gas is not to exceed 3d per thousand cubic feet if the quantity taken per quarter is not less than 4,000,000 cubic feet, and that for smaller quantities than that the charge is not to exceed 4d per thousand cubic feet. The gas is suitable for all purposes save that of illumination.

Woman's Life Saved.

A rather curious case came to our attention of a woman in Detroit whose life was saved "several times," so she says, by Ath-lo-pho-ros. Once is a good record, but "several times" makes her a warm advocate of Ath-lo-pho-ros whenever rheumatism is mentioned—you can write to her if you want—Kate Naumen, 500 12th St., Detroit, Mich. She says Ath-lo-pho-ros is the best and only medicine that will cure rheumatism, "because it has cured me," and she says "the swelling and intense pain ceased within five minutes after the first dose." She further says, "the disease has no more dread for me as long as Ath-lo-pho-ros can be obtained." What it has done for her it will do for anyone.

THE DAY A THE CITY HALL

THE POLICE DRAGNET SCORES A LIGHT HAUL.

A Colored Gentleman Will Think It Over—Practical Jokers Will be Arrested—Committee to Meet.

Police court was considerable of a frost this morning, there being but one offender to face Acting Mayor Tracey. William Glover, a gentleman of color, was charged with being drunk. When asked about it he said he wasn't quite sure whether he was drunk or not. He said he felt kind o' queer and his feet refused to track properly, but that may have been the fault of his feet; anyway, he was not quite sure and was willing to take the benefit of the doubt. The judge told him to take eleven days in jail and think the matter over and let him know some time what he thought about it.

Detective Streifling filed an affidavit against Bixler, senior, for concealing stolen property. A horse brush valued at $1.50, identified as the property of Charles McCulloch, was found in the search the other day. Bixler's arrest will be made today.

An alarm from box 42 called the fire department to the residence of Dan Hurley, at 46 East Butler street, at 3 o'clock this morning. A small fire was discovered in the kitchen and was put out with a nominal loss.

The patrol wagon was called to Ramsey avenue last evening. A family row had been in progress, but as everything was serene when the officers arrived there were no arrests.

The police are on the lookout for a tramp who endeavored to steal an overcoat at the Pennsylvania railroad dining room last night. A gentleman had laid his coat on a chair, when the tramp appropriated it and walked out. The owner of the coat saw him just as he was passing through the door and followed him. The tramp went into the closet and the man stood guard outside waiting for the appearance of an officer. Presently the tramp peeked out and seeing the man still on guard went back. The man then started to hunt an officer and the fellow, seeing the coast clear, laid the coat on the floor and got away.

Officer Elliott reported having found a horse and buggy on the street. He quartered it in a stable to await an owner.

The wheel reported by J. West to have been stolen turned up all right and it was learned that the wheel was taken by a friend simply as a joke. The police are getting tired of these "jokes" and will arrest the next joker they can find. The nuisance is a great one. A man will report to the police that his bicycle is stolen and the officers are kept on the lookout for the stolen property and examine every wheel they see that at all answers the description. This is an annoyance to the officers and the owner of the wheel alike. In the meantime the other fellow, the one who reported the stolen wheel, learns that his friend had taken it as a "joke." They laugh over the matter and take a glass of beer or two and prod each other in the ribs and consider the joke immense. Meantime the officers are not notified and go right on examining suspicious looking bicycles and annoying innocent persons. The fellows never notify the police of the recovery of their wheels, but allow them to find it out the best way they can. An arrest of a practical joker or two will have a tendency to make the trick look less funny after awhile.

The door of Helmkamp's saloon was found open at 2 o'clock this morning by Officer Rohrer. The proprietor was notified.

The committee on contracts and franchises will meet tomorrow night and will undertake to get rid of all the franchises now before it. These include the Decatur electric road, the New Haven road and the District telegraph.

Mayor Scherer has recovered from the grip sufficiently to attend to some of his office duties today.

gal will attend, together with many lesser rulers.

All England will participate in the funeral of the queen. From the time these ceremonies begin at Osborne house until the body is buried at Frogmore, there will be funeral and memorial services throughout the English-speaking world.

There has been no burial of a sovereign in England for nearly sixty-four years. Since the obsequies of William IV. the world has moved forward so far that even the funeral of a British monarch will be utterly unlike that of any that has gone before.

It is believed that a simple ceremony will be held at Osborne house and that the body of the queen will be placed in the royal yacht and conveyed to Portsmouth.

A funeral train will take the royalty and the mourning family to London. At the stations along the route the crape covered train will be met by the mourning people with bared heads. It will arrive at Victoria station.

The millions of the metropolis will lay aside the ordinary duties and pleasures for the day, all places of amusement and of gain will be closed, and all the populace will gather to mourn the queen and do her honor.

IN JUSTICES' COURT.

Rose Cotterman, arrested for eloping from her Ohio home with another man, was discharged by Justice Bullerman yesterday, her husband failing to appear against her. The justice says she told a very straight story of abuse and neglect and thinks that she is a better woman than the husband is a man.

Amos Beales was fined $1 and costs by Justice France for assault and battery on Louis Giraidot.

Myrtle Miller has filed a complaint in Justice France's court charging Bird Allen with illegitimate parentage. The hearing is set for 4 o'clock this afternoon. Both the parties live in this city.

HER HUSBAND'S FAMILY.

An engaged girl is often a very foolish girl with regard to her future husband's relatives. She looks at them with coldness, as people who suppose themselves to have more right in her lover than she herself has. She does not care particularly about them, perhaps, and thinks them frumpy or over particular, and she takes little pains to hide that they don't interest her. She seems to expect that he will lose his old closeness of relation with his own people at once and adopt hers in their stead. She is impatient and resentful of any claim they make to his time or notice, and thinks she ought to have the monopoly, says the Toronto News. This is not only wrong; it is foolish as well.

She should remember that, after all, his own family has the prior right and that it needs a good deal of unselfishness and self-effacement to resign that right without a pang to a strange girl, if even it is a girl he loves. She should think that to even the most generous of mothers it is a hard thing to part with her son to another woman, and the more she herself loves that son, the more she ought to understand his mother's love and sympathize with it.

She ought to reflect that upon her attitude now toward her fiance's people much of the happiness or the discomfort of her future life will rest. She ought to realize what a terrible responsibility she is taking on herself if she does anything to sever the close bond between her husband and his people. It is inevitable that if she makes a faction against them he will side with her, and by how small a difference may she make a quarrel that will break the old affection for life.

Her aim should be to win their liking and their confidence, no matter how little congenial she may chance to find them, and it does not always follow that because she loves a man she finds his family lovable, too. She should make up her mind to put up with much, if needs be, to endure and to be patient and to overlook. She must realize that from henceforth his people are her own people, and that if she is not prepared to take the rough with the smooth in that relation she had better let the whole thing go. A girl who really loves the man she is to marry will not need to be told much of what it is right to do in this respect.

ADVERTISES HER COLONIES.

One of the most significant and impressive recent movements in Germany is the colonial exhibition. Nearly every town of any prominence has had one of these exhibitions, or is about to have one. They are given under the auspices of the best families of the place, with the ladies of society in charge of the booths. One of these exhibitions held at Jena recently occupied a large hall, and it consisted of sample products from German colonies, of maps showing the location of foreign German possessions, and of innumerable photographs of scenery, colonial life and so on. Circulars describing the colonies, inviting immigration and giving all manner of information were distributed free. As a side department there was a naval and shipping exhibit, which made the usual strong plea for more ships.—McClure's Magazine.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan 22, 1901

To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council.

Gentlemen: We your committee on finance, to which was referred the communication of the comptroller in regard to the purchase of bonds, respectfully report that we believe it to be wise and profitable for the city to invest all money on hand in the electric light construction fund as speedily as possible in 5 per cent city improvement bonds, and that the interest derived thereon be semi-annually added to said fund, at the same time giving the comptroller the right to use some of said bonds when necessary to carry against the pre-paid street assessments and replace them with said fund as soon as new bonds are issued. We await the proper resolution for that purpose.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan 22, 1901.

To the Committee of the Whole

Gentlemen: We, your committee appointed to act jointly with the board of water works trustees, relative to an increased water supply at north side station, and other matters pertaining to the water works department, would report as follows:

Under date of November 24, 1900 we recommended the approval of a contract entered into by and between the board of water works trustees and the Shaw Kendal Eng. Co for the purpose of making a test of the rock wells at north side station with the view of ascertaining what quantity of water could be obtained from said wells with the compressed air system.

Said contract provided for the piping up of 6 rock wells in said system, with the air lift, and the installation of compressors with the capacity to pump said wells simultaneously and continuously for the period of 30 days.

The purpose of said test was to show:

1st. What amount of water said 6 wells would supply by said system of pumping.

2nd. What effect the pumping of said 6 wells would have upon the remaining wells.

3rd. The approximate amount of water that could be obtained from the present system of wells, and adjacent territory, by means of this system.

4th. The approximate cost of pumping 1,000 gallons of water with the air lift system, and delivering same at the receiving well.

In accordance with said contract, the Shaw-Kendall people piped up and made individual tests of eight of said rock wells.

The contract provided that three wells in the south system and three wells in the north system be piped up and connected with the syphon lines, and this having been done on December 5th the discharge from the three wells in the south system was turned into the syphon line and a few days later the three wells in the north system having been connected up, the discharge from same was also turned into the syphon line and conducted to the receiving well.

Here a serious proposition arose, as the Shaw Kendall Co., by the terms of their contract were obliged to deliver the water from said 6 wells under test to the syphon lines and conduct the same into the receiving well, to enable the city to utilize the water pumped, and in order to enable them to do this successfully it became necessary for them to cut off the entire system of rock and gravel wells, consisting of a total of 14 rock wells and 33 gravel wells, and depend entirely for the water supply at said station, during the continuance of this test upon that furnished by said six wells under test. This difficulty was successfully met and overcome, these six wells from the date of the test to-wit, December 5th 1900, to January 5th 1901, furnishing upward of 43 500 000 gallons of water, a daily average of almost one and one half million gallons an amount of water almost equal to the amount previously obtained by the former method of pumping from the entire system of fifty wells at the date of the commencement of this test.

There was present to convince the committee of any doubts were entertained previously, of the presence of an immense volume of water at that point and that all that is necessary is the employment of the proper means to obtain it.

Your committee has kept complete and accurate records of everything pertaining to this test from the beginning of the same to this date by making daily visits to the station, and personally ascertaining results, including the measurement of the amount of water pumped each day, effect on the supply of water in the wells being pumped, and effect on the head or supply of water in the other wells in the system etc., and find that the supply of water has not been seriously affected either in the wells being pumped or the other wells in the system. This detailed information we will embody in a final report at a late date.

As the result of this test, and at the completion of the same, on January 7th 1901 the board of water works trustees entered into a supplementary contract with the Shaw Kendall people, which provides for the enlargement of the present testing plant and converting same into a temporary supplying plant, by the addition of compressors and piping sufficient which will enable the said company to drill more rock wells at this point and at the earliest possible date to greatly increase the supply of water to the city. This supplementary contract met with the approval of the committee and will be presented to the council tonight for ratification.

The committee will continue to co-operate with the water works trustees and closely observe results during the continuance of the test under the new contract and at a late date file complete and detailed report of results.

NATURE'S WARNING

Women who have not known the depths of suffering think too little of the warnings of Nature. It is only when suffering is a present reality that they come to realize that life without health is a living death. Many women with little menstrual irregularities imagine they are strong and healthy because they do not suffer much pain. These little irregularities are symptoms which indicate coming suffering. It is well for you to give them immediate attention. You cannot long ignore Nature's warning. Irregular menstruation and leucorrhœa do not bother much at first, but terrible results follow if you neglect to treat them. Falling of the womb and all those racking pains in the head and back are the penalties of carelessness and neglect.

WINE OF CARDUI

will banish every trace of leucorrhœa and irregular menses. If you faithfully take it, you need not suffer or live in dread of coming suffering. Miss Brantley found that out, when she was brought to the full realization of what a blessing health is. There is no reason why you should not have the same happy experience as she, if you will heed Nature's warning. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

Hazlehurst, Miss., Feb. 28, 1900.

I don't know how to express the debt of gratitude I owe Wine of Cardui. If it lay within my power I would reward you handsomely. I must tell you that I have not the least doubt in my mind that you have made a perfect cure in my case at little cost. You have given me every satisfaction. Whenever I suspect anyone of suffering from the same trouble, I shall most assuredly urge them to take Wine of Cardui.

No External Symptoms.

The blood may be in bad condition, yet with no external signs, no skin eruption or sores to indicate it. The symptoms in such cases being a variable appetite, poor digestion, an indescribable weakness and nervousness, loss of flesh and a general run-down condition of the system—clearly showing the blood has lost its nutritive qualities, has become thin and watery. It is in just such cases that S. S. S. has done some of its quickest and most effective work by building up the blood and supplying the elements lacking to make it strong and vigorous.

"My wife used several bottles of S. S. S. as a blood purifier and to tone up a weak and emaciated system, with very marked effect by way of improvement.

"We regard it a great tonic and blood purifier."—J. F. DUFF, Princeton, Mo.

SSS is the greatest of all tonics, and you will find the appetite improves at once, strength returns, and nervousness vanishes as new rich pure blood once more circulates through all parts of the system.

S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known. It contains no minerals whatever. Send for our free book on blood and skin diseases and write our physicians for any information or advice wanted. No charge for medical advice.

UNITE IN TRIBUTE

BRIEF FUNERAL SERVICE FOR HON. R. C. BELL TODAY.

BEAUTIFUL IN SIMPLICITY

A THRONG OF SORROWING FRIENDS WAS PRESENT.

THE BAR HONORS HIS MEMORY

INTERMENT WILL OCCUR AT MUNCIE TOMORROW.

Brief funeral services for Hon. Robert C. Bell were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and hundreds of close personal friends of Mr. Bell, from private, professional and political life, thronged the elegant residence on West Wayne street to honor the memory of the dead jurist, and to take a farewell look at his well-known features.

The service was beautifully simple and impressive; there was no ostentation or display, but hearts that plainly told of sorrow's touch were bowed in honor and respect for the illustrious life that had closed. The Allen County Bar association attended in a body, as did also the Fort Wayne lodge of Elks, and there were also large representations from other societies with which Mr. Bell had been identified, as well as many close friends of the family.

Rev. Marion Crosley, pastor of the Universalist church at Indianapolis, who reached the city this morning, conducted the services, paying a brief but eloquent tribute to the sterling qualities of his dead friend. The Haydn quartet rendered the musical service, and at the close the friends were permitted to file past the casket for a final view of the dead jurist's face.

APPEARANCE LIFELIKE.

The remains rested in a magnificent state casket of black broadcloth near the center of the large reception room. The trimmings of the casket were in perfect taste, the extension handles of oxydized silver and ebony, while a plate of the same material across the lid of the casket bore the simple inscription:

Robert C. Bell.

The features of the dead lawyer, though somewhat wasted by disease, had a remarkably life-like appearance, and were as if in natural repose. Surrounding the casket were the floral offerings, profuse and elaborately beautiful. Conspicuous among them was an immense elk's head wrought from white carnations, the offering of the Fort Wayne lodge of Elks. Other societies also sent offerings, and the remembrances from friends at home and abroad contributed materially to the generous profusion of floral beauty, one of the most notable ever seen in the city.

AT MUNCIE TOMORROW.

The funeral service proper will be held at Muncie tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the Universalist church. The funeral party will leave in a special car over the Lake Erie and Western railroad at 7:10 o'clock. The pall-bearers selected are Hon. S. E. Morss, of Indianapolis; Hon. Ralph S. Gregory, of Muncie; Judge Allen Zollars, C. D. Gorham, A. J. Moynihan, William M. McKinnie, Judge Edward O'Rourke and H. C. Hanna.

Mr. Morss and Mr. Gregory will meet the funeral train at Muncie. Rev. Crosley will deliver the discourse at Muncie, and the interment will be in that city.

A GEM FROM HIS PEN.

A Fort Wayne friend has produced the following fragment of verse written by Mr. Bell ten years ago, and it is here reproduced because it gives something of a glimpse into the hopeful spirit and poetic temperament of the eminent lawyer:

A FRAGMENT.

And hope and fear are ever near.
The one with light, the other gloom.
Yet come what may, in night or day.
With winter's frost or summer's bloom.
The bright, glad past is ours at last.
With all its memories dear.
Let's bear the load o'er dreary road,
Though done with bleeding feet;
The good God knows our joy and woes.
Our faults and failings all;
How weak our wills, how great our ills.
How prone we are to fall.

R. C. B.

TRIBUTE OF THE BAR.

Pursuant to the published call, the Allen County Bar association met at the circuit court room at 10 o'clock to take suitable action on the death of its illustrious member. The attendance was full, comprising nearly every attorney practicing at the local bar. The association was called to order by President Allen Zollars, who announced that he had already appointed a committee on resolutions who had prepared a report to be presented. The action of the president was confirmed and he was named as permanent chairman of the meeting and W. H. Shambaugh was named as secretary, with F. C. Jenne and H. C. Underwood as assistants.

The report of the resolution committee was read by Col. R. S. Robertson as follows:

IN MEMORIAM.

Robert Clark Bell,
Born Clarksburg, Indiana, July 13, 1844.
Died Fort Wayne, Indiana,
January 21, 1901.

The Allen county bar mourns the loss of one of its most illustrious members, and its mourning is deep, heartfelt and sincere.

For nearly thirty years we have felt his influence in the halls of justice, on the hustings, and in the pulse beats of the arteries of business, and it has been no small factor in moulding the character and reputation of the legal profession and of the courts.

His busy life work ended, it is fitting to pass in brief review a summary of his career, and record our appreciation of his virtues.

Born in rural surroundings, his parents pioneer tillers of the soil, proud of that distinction, and that his ancestors were of the yeomanry of Virginia and Kentucky, his boyhood days were spent upon a farm, where he became inured to all the labors and hardships incidental to the pioneer days of southern Indiana, and laid the foundations of his education in, and graduated from, the log school house, to become the teacher of a district school, in which study and avocation he drew the inspiration for his future life.

The civil war, and his participation in it, disarranged his plans of study, but at its close he entered the University of Michigan and finished by taking its law course.

He was admitted to the bar at Muncie in 1867, and became the assistant of Hon. Alfred Kilgore, who then held the position of United States district attorney for Indiana. Here he exhibited talent of a high degree, and demonstrated his ability as a lawyer.

In 1871 he came to Fort Wayne and entered the practice of his profession as the associate of another singularly gifted lawyer and lovable gentleman, the two making a law firm of remarkable strength and character.

From that time his standing at the bar was assured. He took high rank and maintained it. Later, as partner in, or head of some of the most notable legal combinations in the state, he steadily grew into public favor, and served a clientage composed of the most powerful corporations, and the lowliest of the common people, bringing to the service of both all the powers of a great intellect, and the most conscientious labor a lawyer can give to his client.

He possessed a mind which seemed at once to grasp the point which others reached only by slow process of study and reflection, and his arguments before courts and juries were clear, forceful and convincing, and so persuasive that his opponents might well say, "Almost thou persuadest me."

It is difficult to say whether the logic of his arguments or the eloquence with which he was highly gifted, had the most to do with his success. That he was a successful petitioner, that he rose to great heights in his professional career, is too well known to be questioned, and that he deserved the rank accorded him by his clientile and associates at the bar is also beyond dispute.

In the field of politics, as well as in the legal arena, he was always a powerful ally, a dangerous foe. As a state senator for two terms he won the love of his party and the regard of his political opponents.

At one period, had he been willing to quit his profession, he could have commanded the highest honors in the gift of his party in the state. As it was, he contented himself with eight years of senatorial honors and labors, with being a delegate-at-large to the democratic national convention of 1884; the presidency of the democratic state convention of 1896, and such willing and able service as he could render his party at the hustings in each successive campaign, including that of 1900.

Eloquent, fluent in speech, charming in anecdote, and ready in political quotation, he was always in demand for occasions where "a feast of reason and flow of soul" was desired, and rarely did he disappoint his eager listeners. With a mind well cultured, well stored, and ready for all occasions, with refined and poetic taste, with sparkling wit, and a deep sense of humor, he was always an entertaining guest, when he was not the charming entertainer. He was of a lovable nature. Even when armed for the fray, he was courtly and courteous in demeanor. Seldom did personalities embitter his forensic efforts. When they did, none was readier to atone, if at fault, and few so ready to assert that he alone was at fault.

His social habits led him to affiliation with the Masonic order, the Odd Fellows, the Caledonians, the Elks and the Grand Army of the Republic, in some of which bodies he held high rank, and was always gladly welcomed in their gatherings.

A lover of books, his quick mind gathered in and kept in the crannies of his brain, ready for instant use, the best thoughts of the world's best thinkers, in poetry and in prose. His library, with him in it, was a place which none but his chosen friends could learn the secret of the enduring charm which ever led them back to it.

For us, the eloquent, persuasive voice is stilled forever.

The sterling qualities of brain and heart appeal to us for remembrance.

If our brother sometimes gave offense, and who does not, let offenses and foibles be sunk in the waters of Lethe, and let only the courteous gentleman, the daring and knightly opponent, the student and thinker, the eloquent and able lawyer, the loving and steadfast friend, be remembered. This is his message to us

"The good God knows our joys and woes.
Our faults and failing all;
How weak our wills, how great our ills.
How prone we are to fall."

Committee.

Your committee moves the following resolution:

That the foregoing memorial be entered upon the records of the circuit and superior courts; that it be given to the press for publication, and that a suitable engrosse, copy be given to the widow of the deceased as a testimonial of the regard of his associates for their deceased brother."

After the reading of the resolutions and their adoption, the association was addressed by Judge John Morris, Judge Edward O'Rourke, Judge L. M. Ninde, Judge John Aiken, Hon. W. P. Breen, Homer C. Hartman, John Morris, jr., and others, all of whom spoke feelingly of their deceased brother.

CALEDONIANS' MEMORIAL.

At the meeting of the Caledonian society Tuesday evening the following tender and graceful tribute to the late Robert C. Bell was adopted:

It is with profound sorrow this society learns of the death this evening of the Hon. Robert C. Bell, who for many years has been an honorary member.

No choicer spirit, no more genial companion, no more generous nature than his. His retentive memory made him a treasury of the books he read; especially endearing was he when reciting from the storehouse of his memory from his favorite authors, none of whom he prized more highly than the Scottish poet Burns. He seemed to enter into the very spirit and soul of the author and his hearers were often struck with the depth of meaning he brought out from the simple language. It was music to the ear and thrilled the whole being to listen to him.

Like his favorite author in many ways, he was a lover of nature. He had no use for cant and hypocrisy he abhorred. Glorious in his intellectual character, magnanimous in his moral, in his patriotism he was sublime. We praise him for his greatness and sympathize with him in his weakness and, in the language of his beloved poet, say:

"Who made the heart, 'tis He alone
Decidedly can try us;
He knows each chord its various tone,
Each spring its various bias.
Then at the balance let's be mute;
We never can adjust it;
What's done we partly can compute,
But know not what's resisted."

There is but one other honorary member of our society and it will be some time before the place of Robert C. Bell in our ranks can be filled.

To the bereaved widow and mourning friends we extend our sympathy and mingle our sorrow with theirs.

Men Routed by Hatpins.

An incident of an amusing character, in which women's hatpins filled the title role, occurred in the course of Governor Roosevelt's visit to Kansas. On reaching the town of Manhattan, in that state, he found a large crowd assembled to greet him, and the men had so completely usurped all the points of vantage that there was no chance for the women, who were gathered in the rear, to catch even an occasional glimpse of what was going on. In vain the women pleaded with the men to get down. They held their positions and resisted all appeals.

In this emergency one young woman shouted to her companions, "Try your hatpins!" In an instant every woman started forward, with her hatpin leveled at the offending and obstinate men. The latter hesitated, but it was only for a moment. As they watched the steady oncoming of the determined phalanx a panic seized them, and they literally tumbled over one another in their efforts to get out of the way.

The rout was complete and ended in the women getting the best seats in the house. And they certainly deserved to have them.—Leslie's Weekly.

Lady Roberts' Trunks.

There is a characteristic story being told about Lady Roberts and her trunks, for which the soldiers now returned from South Africa vouch. At the height of the transport difficulties, in the teeth of irate officials, she carried eight huge trunks from Cape Town to Bloemfontein. Every one wondered; every one grumbled. No one but Lady Roberts could possibly have got a similar quantity and weight of luggage through.

The transport of stores had been stopped for the time, the sick and wounded lacked every comfort, and those who were not in the hospital were half starved and half clad. Therefore when a fatigue party was told off to fetch these eight mountainous trunks from Bloemfontein station sharp things were said about "the plague of women." But next day seven of the trunks were unpacked and their contents distributed among the "Tommies." The clever lady had snapped her fingers at red tape and had smuggled comforts to the men in this way. One small trunk contained her own modest wardrobe.—Chicago Record.

American Girls.

Is the type of American beauty really changing? Observers say that it is. They declare that not only is the girl of the period growing taller, but that her face is growing a more decided oval, her hair is darken brown and that her eyes are more frequently dark than light in color. No one is discussed as frequently and as much as that same girl of the period. Awhile ago we discovered that her mouth and her foot were larger than that of her grandmother. Later we noticed that she was taller than her mother, and now we are told that her very type is changed. And how shall we account for the fact that her face is more oval than round and her eyes darker? That is the mystery. Her complexion is darker because she braves bareheaded the rays of the most relentless sun. She is taller because she devotes much of her time to athletics, but as to the other qualities one can give no suitable answer. The triumphant American girl must remain as much of an enigma as ever.

Cooked 75 Thanksgiving Dinners.

Mrs. John A. Powers Mills, of Allegany, N. Y., aged 82 years, has cooked 75 Thanksgiving dinners. She was 7 years old when she prepared the first one. Mrs. Mills did other useful things besides cook Thanksgiving dinners, for in 1855, when she was Mrs. John A. Powers, she was a physician and began to practice in the city of Buffalo.

But always on Thanksgiving day she laid aside her professional cares long enough to cook the dinner. On last Thanksgiving she entertained a large party of friends, besides her own family.

The Latest Thing.

The latest hobby in American society is who can prove her claim to owning the best looking cat. For some time past there has been quite a run on costly cats. Mrs. Vanderbilt is said to have set this fashion and proudly declares that she is in possession of the most beautiful cat in the world. It cost something like $1,000, says Home Chat.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—The closing of the Liverpool and London markets by the queen's death tended to narrow the wheat here. May opened unchanged at 72½c to 74¼c, touched 74c and rallied to 74¾c. THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Jan. 23.—The market became reactionary on realizing and short selling, encouraged by the sharp advances. Declines from the highest reach a point or more in some of the leading railroads and specialties. Exceptional strength in Pressed Steel Car caused an advance of 6½ points to 42 in the common and 3¾ in the preferred. The trading was active and well distributed at the opening and the majority of stocks showed fractional gains. The gains reached 1½ in Baltimore and Ohio and 1½ in St. Paul and about a point each in Federal Steel and Erie. Sugar rose 1½, but immediately lost all but a small fraction.

The market became hesitating and then yielded. Erie first preferred and Missouri Pacific losing a point each. Bidding up of special stocks caused a rebound in prices and the market became very animated and strong. St. Paul held a conspicuous place in the advance with a gain of 2¾, and gains were made by Tobacco, Lackawanna, Kansas and Texas preferred, Great Northern preferred and Brooklyn Transit of almost 2 points each. Good buying of the Steel stocks lifted Smelting and Pressed Steel Car 1½ and 2¾ respectively. Some of the Pacifics and Sugar rose strongly and the general buying appeared confident. The general market held above the opening prices, but Missouri Pacific and Wabash preferred were well below last night. Toward midday the advance was resumed, under the leadership of Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, the Atchisons, Erie and People's Gas, all of which touched the highest prices of the morning.

Bonds were generally firm.

MACHINISTS' BALL

FRIENDSHIP LODGE TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

AFFAIR AT MULQUEEN HALL

ORDER NOW ELEVEN YEARS OLD AND PROSPEROUS.

THOMAS MEEGAN GOES WEST

WILL RESIDE IN KANSAS CITY HEREAFTER.

Friendship lodge No. 70, International Association of Machinists, has decided to celebrate its eleventh anniversary in a manner befitting such an occasion. With that object in view preparations for a grand ball to be given on the night of February 18 are now under way. It will take place at Mulqueen hall, and Reineke's orchestra has already been engaged. One of the men on the committee of arrangements said this morning: "Friendship lodge is not aiming at a money-making entertainment. The chief aim is a good, social time for the members and machinists outside the union. We hope to increase an interest in the order, which will result in an increased membership and power for doing good."

AT HALF MAST.

The Nickel Plate flag, on the magnificent flag staff in the west yards, is floating at half mast in honor to the memory of Hon. R. C. Bell, who was the company's attorney from the beginning of the road up to the time of his death, last Monday. Mr. Bell made the chief address at the dedication of the pole and the first unfurling of the fifty-foot flag upon it. He was also one of the largest contributors towards defraying the expense of the pole and flag. The Nickel Plate employes have other cause also for honoring the memory of Mr. Bell. He was known to all of them, and each considered him a personal friend. He did many kindly acts for the "boys," as he called the employes, and they loved him.

WRECK ON FAIRFIELD AVENUE.

The Wabash yardmen and section men had a few troubles of their own at an early hour this morning. Two box cars, a gondola and a "dead" engine in a westbound train left the rails at Fairfield avenue. The entire force was called to the scene, but it was an hour or two before the wheels were replaced on the rails and the tracks cleared. The derailed engine was a massive affair just out of the shops. It belonged to the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern company.

TO KANSAS CITY TO LIVE.

Thomas Meegan bade farewell to Fort Wayne friends this morning and is now en route to Kansas City, which place will be his home hereafter. Mr. Meegan spent nearly a half century in Fort Wayne, and to a Sentinel reporter he said that his associations here had been most pleasant. It is, he said, with feelings of sorrow that he severs them. His wife and children are in Kansas City, and at their earnest solicitation Mr. Meegan is now en route there to join them. He hopes to pay old friends here a visit before many months. Mr. Meegan was shopclerk for the Pennsylvania company from 1862 up to a few years ago, when he was placed upon the retired list.

OBJECTION TO PENSION.

While the majority of railway men approve the pension plan of the Pennsylvania company, there are a few who predict evil results should it spread to all the leading roads of the country. Of this number the Indianapolis Journal cites a prominent railroader and says: "In commenting on the pension plan, a director of the Illinois Central road says the matter has been discussed, but nothing has yet been done. There seems to be much difference of opinion as to the wisdom of these pension schemes. They are supposed to be prompted by philanthropic motive, but many arguments might be advanced to show that the welfare of railway employes is not insured by a plan which, after only thirty years of continuous service, would allow them only a pittance after being forced to retire from work. If all the railroads should adopt the rule included in all the pension plans, not to employ men over thirty or thirty-five years of age, there would soon be an army of unemployed railway men."

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

At a meeting last Sunday, Fort Wayne lodge No. 136, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, adopted resolutions of respect to the memory of their deceased brothers, Frank B. Burk and Charles McNally. The "Bard of the Brotherhood" has embodied the sentiments of the lodge in poetic form into the resolution concerning the death of their brother, Burk. It reads as follows:

From our presence, into the heaven of rest
Dear Brother Burk has passed to dwell with the blest.
He smilingly went from his dear happy home,
Not expecting life's end to be merely a moan.

He was light hearted, cheery and gay,
And hoped ere long to come back to stay,
But it was there he met with that horrible doom,
And now he lies, resting in the silent tomb.

His precious soul has gone to rest,
His spirit fled to the home of the blest,
A voice we loved so much is still,
His place is vacant none else can fill.

We mourn, as do his many friends,
When e'er we think how sad life ends.
He is dead, but lives among us yet,
His smiling face we'll never forget.

He was a light, a city on the hill,
His kindly deeds this engine could not kill.
In the lodge room, or on the street, we never shall meet
The dear loved brother we used to greet.

Help us, dear Lord, this cross to bear,
That in this sorrow all may share.
Comfort that father, and heart broken mother,
Sorrowing wife and children, and also his grief stricken brothers.

Mr. Burk was much loved by us all,
Yet his sweet spirit we would not recall.
He has fought a good fight, and the prize he has won,
And he is now made heir of the Glorified Son.

Resolved, That this testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be spread upon the records of the lodge, and a copy thereof be transmitted to the sorrowing family and friends of our deceased brother and our brother organizations, the B. of L. F., the S. U. of N. A., and our ladies' auxiliary, who showed us so much courtesy, sympathy and support in the death and funeral of our late brother,

J. C. Miller,
C. A. Scott,
E. M. Hall,
Committee.

WRECK AT KIRBY.

A broken draw bar in train 81, on the Pittsburg, caused the wreck of three oil tank cars between Kirby and Upper Sandusky at 10:30 o'clock last night. The accident in itself was not so serious or annoying to the railway management as was the delay to traffic. Passenger trains 2, 4, 15, 5 and 22 were delayed from one to four hours by the blockade, and no freights were able to pass that point for five or six hours. The

LAKE ERIE AND WESTERN.

On March 1 the purchasing department of the Lake Erie & Western will be removed from Indianapolis to Cleveland, and William F. Goltra who has been purchasing agent of the Lake Erie and Western, will remove to Cleveland and take the position of chief clerk of F. H. Green, purchasing agent of the Lake Shore road, which now controls the Lake Erie and Western. The Lake Erie and Western will be greatly improved during the present season; already 17,000 tons of new steel has been purchased and the fastenings for the same. The new steel will weigh seventy-five pounds to the yard, and it is the intention, says President Newman, to place the Lake Erie and Western in condition to compare favorably with the best roads crossing Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

CONDUCTOR BENBOW SICK.

Conductor D. B. Benbow, of the Nickel Plate, was taken quite ill at Knox, Ind., yesterday. He was brought here on train No. 2 this afternoon and taken to Hope hospital. His ailment is not considered of a dangerous character. Mr. Benbow is a member of the Fort Wayne lodge of Elks.

HAD A WRIST SPRAINED.

Gen. Supt. A. W. Johnston, of the Nickel Plate, was in the city last night. He came in on No. 3, at 4.30 yesterday afternoon, and remained until 2.30 this morning, when he left on No. 5 for Chicago. Supt. C. D. Norham accompanied Mr. Johnston over the division.

Car Inspector Foreman Steve Schellenberger, of the Pittsburg, is confined to his home by the grip. Other new names on the shop's absentee list are F. Malling, J. H. Kamm, C. W. Ostemeyer, John A. Rost, J. F. Szink, W. Heuer, William Pepper and F. W. Gardner.

One man has sold seventy tickets to the annual ball of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Another has sold fifty-five tickets. The modesty of these gentlemen has led them to request The Sentinel to withhold their names from publicity. The ball is yet over three weeks distant and the gentlemen referred to say they will have sold 100 tickets each before the day appointed for the event.

Indianapolis Journal: "Of the 257 miles which constitute the western division of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road there are now in service 108 miles of double track. The last of this week the double track will reach Van Wert, and by April 1 140 miles of this division will be double tracked. Within the present year the entire line from Crestline to Chicago will be double tracked."

The urn contained the ashes of an American citizen who had died abroad, and his remains were being brought home in this shape. After considering the matter for some time the collector decided that the urn and its contents should be admitted. This is the first time that an urn worth several hundred dollars was passed without assessment.

WANTED—A good girl for general housework at 29 W. Jefferson St.

COMMITTEE WILL ORGANIZE

AUDITORIUM PROMOTERS TO MEET THIS EVENING.

Many Sub-Committees to Be Named and Active Work Will Begin at Once.

The auditorium committee recently named by the Fort Wayne Commercial club will hold its first meeting this evening and organize for the campaign that is before it.

Chairman Beers said to The Sentinel this morning that he was not prepared to outline the plan of procedure, for he had not consulted many members of the committee, and until all were on hand and the situation thoroughly discussed, it was impossible to state definitely just what steps would be taken.

"One thing is sure," said Mr. Beers; "we are going to begin active work upon the proposition, and it is intended that the solicitation shall be so thorough as to give every citizen of Fort Wayne an opportunity to assist this enterprise, whether his means be great or small. We want the movement to be a people's movement, and we want the actual support of every citizen. It is likely that a large number of sub-committees will be named—sufficient to look after every avenue that can be reached, and we can hardly excuse any citizen even leaving on a protracted vocation before he has arranged to make his contribution of stock to the enterprise."

LOCAL LINES.

F. M. Powers, of Angola, and C. A. Bishop, of Auburn, are in the city.

R. C. Ross has been granted a building permit to erect a dwelling house on West Jefferson street to cost $1,000.

D. B. Benbow, a commuter on the [illegible] Plato, has been sick at Stony Island and was today brought to this city and taken to Hope hospital.

Mrs. Lily Colepoys, of Minneapolis, Minn., a sister of the late Hon. R. C. Bell, arrived in the city at noon today to attend the funeral service. A number of Muncie friends of the dead jurist, as well as prominent members of the bar from surrounding counties, are also in the city.

Miss Ida Wenninghoff, who was operated upon at St. Joseph hospital some weeks ago by Dr. McOscar, has recovered and has been removed to her home at 30 Lavina street.

S. Kariger and Z. Snowberger have sold a house on East DeWald street to Mr. and Mrs. G. Sullivan for $1,650. The sale was made for E. Loose.

Miss Edith Krapf was pleasantly surprised by a party of friends at her home on East Lewis street in honor of her birthday anniversary. Progressive pedro was the feature of the evening and prizes were won by Miss Rosa Huesching and Theodore Kleinsorg, the booby premiums being won by Mrs. Alfred Noll, of Indianapolis, and Mr. Keller.

Some excitement was caused this morning by a runaway team which raised Ned on the Harrison street market for a while. The team belonged to Keller & Braun, the stone cutters, and was attached to one of their wagons. The horses came down Pearl street and dashed across Harrison street, narrowly missing a number of pedestrians and some stray teams and went up the alley between Main and Columbia streets. At a point back of the Wayne hotel they collided with a telegraph pole, smashed the wagon and slightly injured one of the horses. No one was injured.

The Blackford Law club will hold a meeting this evening at the office of Judge Ninde. The case up is one on breach of contract, with Hon. Allen Zollars sitting as special judge.

ACCLAIM THE KING

Albert Edward Takes the Oath of Sovereignty as Edward VII. ---People Cheer King.

CEREMONY AT PRIVY COUNCIL

London, Jan. 23.—3:03 p. m.—At the meeting of the privy council the king took the title of King Edward VII., king of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India.

The king took the oath of sovereignty and as he returned to the palace he was acclaimed by the immense throngs who lined the route of his carriage and were massed at the palace.

KING ENTERS HIS CAPITAL.

London, Jan. 23.—1 p. m.—The king-emperor entered his capital at 12:35 p. m. and proceeded to Marlborough house.

Dense crowds, beginning at St. James street, lined the entire route to Victoria station from an early hour. The mall and the front of Buckingham palace were especially thronged. All along the former, from the palace to Marlborough house, carriages filled with ladies stood as if for a drawing room, excepting that the coachmen, footmen and occupants were all dressed in mourning.

The police precautions were unusual. Men on foot and mounted guarded almost every yard of the way.

The crowds waited patiently for hours to greet their king. Finally, preceded by half a dozen mounted policemen, the new sovereign arrived in a plain brougham, which was driven very rapidly, with the coachman and footman in their usual gray liveries, with mourning bands on their arms.

An equerry was seated beside him. The king was, of couse, dressed in the deepest and most simple mourning and carefully raised his hat in acknowledgment of the silent uncovering of heads, which was more impressive than the most enthusiastic cheers. The king looked tired and very sad, but well.

Following him came the duke of York, the duke of Connaught and others. Both the king and the duke of York looked pathetically up at Buckingham palace as they passed, and acknowledged the salute of the guard of honor drawn up inside the palace grounds.

The troops there and elsewhere showed no signs of mourning, except that the bands were not present, but all the officers had crape on their left sleeves.

FIRST PRIVY COUNCIL.

The king drove to St. James palace from Marlborough house to preside at the first privy council, by way of Marlborough house yard, the mall and the garden entrance of the palace. He was attended by Lord Suffield (who has been lord of the bedchamber to the prince of Wales since 1872) and was escorted by a captain's escort of the horse guards. The procedure was exactly as on levee days.

By the time the king arrived a great gathering of privy councillors in levee dress, with crape on their left arms, had taken up position in the throne room—cabinet ministers, peers, commoners, bishops, judges, the lord mayor, etc., including the duke of York, the duke of Connaught and lesser members of the royal family.

TO RECEIVE THE OATH.

Lord Salisbury, Lord Roseberry, A. J. Balfour, the duke of Devonshire, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, and a host of the most prominent personages in the land were there to receive the formal oath binding him to govern the kingdom according to its laws and customs and hear him assume the title of King Edward VII. of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India.

The ceremony was interesting and according to precedent. The king was in a separate apartment from the privy councillors. To the latter the duke of Devonshire, lord president of the council, formally communicated the death of Queen Victoria and the succession to the throne of her son, the prince of Wales.

The royal dukes, with certain lords of the council, were then directed to repair to the king's presence to acquaint him with the terms of the lord president's statement. Shortly afterwards his majesty entered the room in which the councillors were assembled and addressed them in a brief speech. The chancellor (Lord Salisbury) then administered the oath of sovereignty to the king, as follows:

THE OATH OF SOVEREIGNTY.

Lord Caancellor—Is your majesty willing to take the oath?

The King—I am.

Lord Chancellor—Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the dominions thereto according to the statutes in parliament agreed on and the respective laws and customs of the same?

The King—I solemnly promise so to do.

Lord Chancellor—Will you to the utmost of your power cause law and justice in mercy to be executed in all your judgments?

The King—I will.

Lord Chancellor—Will you to the utmost of your power maintain the laws of God, the true profession of the gospel and the Protestant reformed religion established by law, and will you maintain and preserve inviolably the settlement of the united church of England and Ireland, and the doctrine, worship, discipline and government thereof, as by law established within England and Ireland and the territories thereunto belonging, and will you preserve unto the bishops and clergy of England and Ireland and to the churches there committed to their charge all such rights and privileges as by law do or shall pertain to them or any of them?

The King—All this I promise to do.

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE.

Afterwards the various members of the council, commencing with lords in council, took the oath of allegiance and then passed in turn before his majesty, as at a levee, excepting that each passed and kissed the king's hand before passing out of the chamber.

This brought the ceremony to a close.

By 3:30 p. m., when his majesty returned to Marlborough house, the crowd in the neighborhood was of immense proportions. The king's prior journey was accomplished in almost complete silence, but on this occasion he was lustily cheered all along the line of route.

Immediately opposite Marlborough house gates a tall gentleman in front of the crowd waved his hat and shouted, "Long live the king," whereupon the crowd cheered with redoubled vigor.

KING'S SPEECH BRIEF.

The king at the accession ceremony wore a military uniform. His brief speech was delivered with great earnestness and was quite extemporaneous. It is said it will be published later in official form.

EDWARD'S SPEECH.

King Edward, in his speech to the privy council, said he had decided to assume the title of King Edward VII. in accordance with the wish of his beloved mother, who, his majesty added, united the virtues of a supreme domestic guide with the affection and patriotism of a wide, peace-loving monarch. He had a respectful desire to leave the memory of his father's name, Albert, the exclusive treasure of his beloved mother. Notwithstanding his personal desire, he could not hope to do justice to the renown and virtues associated with Prince Albert's name, but he would do his utmost to be worthy of his great position.

At the last moment the king decided not to attend the house of lords today. The proclamation of the accession of his majesty was signed by the princes present, the duke of York first, then the duke of Connaught, the duke of Cambridge, Prince Christian, the archbishop of Canterbury, the lord chancellor, the lord mayor and the other representatives of the city of London.

ARTILLERY FIRES SALUTE.

At 4:30 p. m. the artillery began firing salutes in James park to signalize King Edward's accession to the throne.

Among the incidents of the day was an imposing civic procession. The lord mayor and aldermen, accompanied by the city marshal, mace bearer and other members of the corporation, escorted by a strong body of police, proceeded from the mansion house, by way of the Thames embankment and Trafalgar square, to St. James palace in gilded equipages, with liveried outriders, including twenty semi-state carriages, making a notable picture, which was witnessed by thousands of silent people who filled the sidewalks along the entire route.

ALLEGIANCE IS SWORN.

The house of lords and the house of commons assembled at 4 o'clock and took the oath of allegiance to the new sovereign.

The attendance in the house of commons was large. All the members, dressed in the deepest mourning, stood up as Speaker Gully entered and announced that by reason of the deeply-lamented decease of her majesty, Queen Victoria, it had become their duty to take the oath of allegiance to her successor, his majesty, King Edward VII.

The speaker then administered the oath and the swearing in of the members proceeded. Joseph Chamberlain, the secretary of state for the colonies; Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the chancellor of the exchequer; Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the liberal leader in the house, and Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, were the first to subscribe their names on the roll. In the house of lords the oath was taken by the duke of York, the duke of Connaught, Earl Roberts, Lord Rosebery, Lord Salisbury, the duke of Argyll, Lord Lansdowne and a hundred others.

The house of lords then adjourned until tomorrow.

ALL LONDON IN MOURNING.

London has donned a garb of mourning from end to end and an early hour found a thick fog enveloping the city like a pall, a fitting accompaniment of the funereal apparel of everyone. Throughout the west end drawn blinds are the order of the day, while on all the embassies, government offices and public buildings the flags are half-masted.

The law courts, the stock exchange and all the produce and metal exchanges throughout the country only assembled to close immediately after the presiding officers had addressed to the members a few words of tribute to the dead monarch.

There were exceptionally larger congregations in the churches in all parts of the country. At St. Paul's cathedral the prayers for the royal family were altered to read:

"For our sovereign lord, the king, and the queen consort."

All the services were ended by the playing of the dead march.

The various naval and military stations fired a salute of eighty-one guns at mid-day to signalize the death of the queen, one gun for each completed year of the queen's age.

The public buildings are being draped with black, the stores are displaying many signs of mourning and business is practically at a standstill.

SOME MEASURES IN PERIL

POLITICAL BILLS IN THE BALANCE.

Republicans May Not Make the Fort Wayne Charter Bill a Caucus Measure.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—The Press this afternoon says:

"The fate of several republican political measures now before the legislature is in the balance. It is not even certain that the Fort Wayne police bill will be made a caucus measure."

Both houses of the legislature today adopted resolutions deploring the death of Queen Victoria and paying tribute to her worth.

The senate killed the bill allowing county councils to fix the number of days assessors and surveyors shall work. A resolution asking congress to employ Bedford stone in the new Indianapolis federal building will be the special order tomorrow.

L. J. Crane, of Elkhart, is at the New Avelina.

SENATOR RAWLINS, OF UTAH, CAUSES SENSATION.

OTHER SENATORS PROTEST

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL AGAIN TAKEN UP.

Washington, Jan. 23.—A spirited incident occurred in the senate this afternoon when the legislative bill was taken up. Mr. Rawlins, of Utah, read a newspaper article saying there was a combination formed in the Utah legislature to elect a Mr. Kearns senator and that it was being forwarded by the Mormon church, which was now working with the republican party. He intimated that the church had received certain promises from the republicans in relation to the practice of polygamy and he said he thought a voice should go out from Washington in condemnation of the proceeding.

Mr. Hale, of Maine, replied to Mr. Rawlins vigorously. He said there ought not to be any expression of the United States senate upon a matter like a senatorial election. It was highly improper to send a "voice from Washington" while a legislature was performing its constitutional duty. It was paternalism of the worst sort.

Mr. Chandler, of New Hampshire, also took occasion to say that he thought the action of Mr. Rawlins was not in good taste and that the senate should not attempt to influence a state legislature.

In a reply Mr. Rawlins criticised the action of the legislature of New Hampshire, where Mr. Chandler was defeated, and said the result was, according to Mr. Chandler's statement, brought about by combinations similar to those proposed in Utah.

Mr. Chandler smilingly retorted that while the result in New Hampshire was greatly to be deplored and the methods of the late senatorial election in that state were to be condemned, yet it would have been very bad taste if his colleague (Mr. Gallinger) had made a protest while the election was going on.

This allusion, owing to the well known differences existing between the New Hampshire senators, raised a laugh among senators and the galleries. The senate then continued the consideration of the appropriation bill.

The blind chaplain, Mr. Milburn, in his opening invocation in the senate today, referred beautifully and touchingly to the death of Queen Victoria. At the conclusion of routine business, consideration was resumed of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, the pending question being the amendment of Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, providing for the appointment of an assistant attorney general to represent the government in all matters of claims pending before congress.

THE BILL PASSES.

At 2:30 p. m. the senate passed the legislative bill and on motion of Mr. Frye the ship subsidy bill was taken up.

There was a viva voice vote, but no roll call.

Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, called attention to the Indian appropriation bill, which had been reported, which remained for the senate to consider and which contained much debatable matter. Mr. Jones thought the Indian bill should therefore be considered.

IN THE HOUSE.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The blind chaplain of the house, in his invocation today, referred feelingly to the death of Queen Victoria.

Without intervening business the house immediately resumed the consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill.

WELL KNOWN RECTOR DIES.

Philadelphia, Jan. 23.—Rev. Wm Wallace Silvester, rector of the George W. South Memorial Protestant Episcopal Church of the Advocate, died last night at his home in this city. Death was due to heart trouble, with which he had been a sufferer since Christmas. Rev. Silvester was one of the most widely known clergymen in the Episcopal church. He was born in Danvers, Mass., sixty-seven years ago and after his ordination in 1868 had charges in various parts of New England, subsequently receiving a call to Davenport, Iowa, and then to St. Louis. Thirteen years ago he came to this city.

THE WORLD EXPRESSES ITS SORROW.

Bombay, Jan. 23.—All public functions here have been cancelled, the public offices have been closed and business has been suspended. The genuine sorrow of the natives is extraordinarily marked, even the poorest and most ignorant expressing the utmost regret and profound sorrow. It is a remarkable revelation of sincere loyalty. Special services have been arranged to take place in the native places of worship.

Berlin, Jan. 23.—The court has been ordered to go into mourning for four weeks. The empress has arrived at Homburg and proceeded to the royal castle, in order to be near Dowager Empress Frederick.

Colombo, Ceylon, Jan. 23.—The deepest sympathy with the royal family on the death of Queen Victoria is felt throughout this island. The flags are half-masted, all functions have been postponed and business is suspended.

Melbourne, Victoria, Jan. 23.—Business is entirely suspended here as a result of the death of Queen Victoria, and the deepest grief is manifested. There are signs of mourning everywhere.

Amsterdam, Jan. 23.—The newspapers here are full of respectful sympathy with Great Britain, but the views of the political aspect of the death of Queen Victoria are largely influenced by the prevailing sentiment concerning the South African war. The Handelsblad says:

"The end of her pacific reign was obscured by the shadow of war and insurrection, and, alas, finishes with an unjust war against little people, which is all the more humiliating, as England has not conquered the Afrikanders. The queen dies profoundly regretted by her people, whose great love and respect she merited, but the end of her reign was stigmatized by the most unjust war of the century. Victoria, fulfilling in the noblest manner her duty, twice prevented the war. But, as an octogenarian, she no longer had her former power and will, and the republics were forced into a war which has deprived England of all moral prestige. The monetary markets of the world instinctively feel that the ministers of King Edward cannot count on the patience of Emperor William and the czar, who avoided everything which might render the queen's last days unhappy. Consequently, her death will evidently have a great bearing on the future of England, which is sombre."

The Telegraaf says:

"Poor queen, upon whom the Nemesis of history will avenge the crime of her ministers, which she could not prevent."

New York, Jan. 23.—A dispatch to the world from Rome says:

The pope, who has been kept constantly informed of the condition of the queen, received the news of her death through Cardinal Rampolla. His Eminence said not a word, but dropped on his knees to pray, remaining in this attitude for a considerable time. Afterward he gave orders that in all churches prayers for the queen be offered up tomorrow. The pope will be represented at the funeral by Cardinal Vaughn.

Christina, Jan 23.—The president of parliament, referring to Queen Victoria's death today, said he felt assured of the support of all the members in expressing sympathy with Great Britain's grief at the loss of her popular queen. The members listened standing.

Vienna, Jan. 23.—Emperor Francis Joseph went to the British embassy this morning and personally expressed his sympathy to Lord and Lady Plunkett. He remained there half an hour. The duke of Cumberland called at the embassy and many of the nobility and court dignitaries inscribed their names.

Lisbon, Jan. 23.—The papers of this city publish lengthy eulogies of Queen Victoria and renew their expressions of sympathy with England, "a friendly and allied nation." They speak of the brilliant qualities of the new king.

King Charles intends to attend the funeral of Queen Victoria personally. Court mourning for a month has been ordered.

The papers are filled with eulogistic articles on Victoria and her reign.

HOUSE OF MOURNING

The Royal Residence at Osborn Is Quiet and Somber as Queen Lies There.

HOUSEHOLD SEES DEAD RULER

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Jan. 23.—Events have shifted from Cowes to London. Osborne is a house of mourning and Cowes is probably the quietest place in the United Kingdom today. The king departed early. After him followed the army of officials and newspaper correspondents.

The king's departure was as unostentatious as that of an American president. He and his suite, in civilian attire, left the castle without a military escort and with no sign of pomp.

Queen Victoria's body was embalmed last evening and occupies the center of the dining room, which is hung with trappings of mourning.

Outside two officers are on guard. Within two Indian attendants remain in company with the ladies in waiting, who are constantly present.

The body is attired in black. The face is perfectly peaceful and the remains have been placed with the arms folded.

On the breast rests a beautiful gold cross. The head is inclined slightly to the right. All about repose quantities of beautiful flowers.

The honor of first seeing the body of the queen was conferred on her personal retinue, and such a simple pathetic scene as marked the afternoon could hardly have occurred in any other monarchy.

All the servants and tenants were admitted. The footmen, housemaids, coachmen, stable lads and policemen, dressed in their Sunday clothes, filed through the room for four hours.

There were no formalities. It might have been the body of any country lady, whose tenants were bidding her a last farewell. Bent old men, children and families who had grown up on the estate, who regarded Queen Victoria as a friend and patron rather than as a sovereign, took their turn, and their grief was the sorrow of those who had lost a friend.

In the meantime, many residents of Cowes and neighboring towns and some prominent people applied at the porter's lodge for admission, but they were told to come tomorrow.

There is no mistaking the reality of the sorrow of Cowes.

"The queen was always so good to us," they say. She knew personally many of the townspeople and took real interest in their families, their troubles and their joys. She could call many of them by name and often stopped in her drives to talk to them. Almost every house has a half-masted flag and the store windows are draped with black and white.

GLOOMY AIR AT COWES.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Jan. 23, 8:30 a. m.—The morning opened dull and threatening, and the town bears a miserable aspect.

Everywhere the blinds are drawn and black is displayed. There is scarcely a sign of life anywhere except at Trinity pier, where there is constant interchange of signals between the royal yacht Alberta, which lies alongside the pier, and the yacht Osborne, aboard of which some members of the royal family still remain.

A message just received from Osborne house says Emperor William's plans are as yet not known, but it is believed that he will not leave today. The Alberta had steam up all night and now has a big awning fixed in readiness to proceed to Portsmouth at 9:40 o'clock with the king, the duke of York, Mr. Balfour, and the earl of Clarendon on board to catch a special train for London at 11 o'clock.

The royal yacht Alberta has received orders to be in readiness to convey the queen's remains to the mainland.

The transfer of her majesty's body will, it is believed, take place soon.

The coffin will be placed on the main deck, athwart ships, just in front of the structure known as the "Queen's canopy," where her majesty was in the habit of sitting during her trips on the yacht.

The coffin will be placed on a spot marked on the deck with a brass cross, where the coffin of Prince Henry of Battenberg also rested.

THE KING LEAVES COWES.

The king and the duke of York will return to Osborn house tonight. The route from Osborne house to Trinity pier was deserted except for a few groups of bare headed persons when, at 9:40 o'clock, three open carriages, drawn by white horses, galloped down the hill.

In the first carriage were the king, the duke of Connaught, the duke of York and Prince Christian. The king looked well and bowed repeatedly in acknowledgment of the greetings of his subjects. The royal personages immediately embarked on the Alberta.

The royal standard was hoisted as the king touched the deck. As the Alberta started off signals were shown ordering that no salutes should be fired.

The crews of the cruiser Australia and the other royal yachts were mustered as the Alberta steamed by. The commencement of the king's first voyage was a memorable and impressive event.

WILL GO TO WINDSOR

Unless the king otherwise directs, it is probable that the queen's body will be taken on board the royal yacht Alberta tomorrow for conveyance to Windsor. In the meanwhile, the dining room at Osborne house has been transformed into a mortuary chapel. The body has been removed from the bedroom and lies there at present. The servants will be admitted to view the remains.

There will be, however, nothing in the nature of lying in state here, nor, so far as known at Cowes, will there be any public lying in state at Windsor.

A guard of royal reservists is watching the body.

The arrangements for the obsequies will be made at the privy council, after a consultation with the king.

Orders have been sent to Windsor to prepare the apartments for royal arrivals.

KING DELAYS RETURN.

The king and other members of the royal family will not return to Osborne until tomorrow. The officers of the all the royal yachts, the servants and tenantry had a last glimpse of the remains of the queen this afternoon.

It is now thought improbable that the body will be removed before Friday. A service will be held tomorrow for the royal family and the household in the chapel at Osborne.

Emperor William's London was magnificent with broad ribbons bearing the initials of himself and the queen, which he personally will place on the queen's coffin at the services tomorrow. By a special request of the family the authorities of St. Paul's Cathedral have sent to Osborne the six candelabra used at the funeral of the duke of Wellington.

ROYALTY WILL GATHER.

New York, Jan. 23. A dispatch to the World from London says:

All the royalty of Europe will gather at the funeral of Queen Victoria.

The assemblage will be unprecedented, because her majesty was closely related to the European courts, big and little.

The queen will in all probability be buried within ten days at Frogmore mausoleum, which she erected over the prince consort in Windsor park.

In former days a month would be allowed to elapse between the death and the burial of the sovereign.

For one day the body of the queen will lie in state in Waterloo chamber, Windsor castle. The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock at night, with the utmost pomp and ceremony, in St. George's chapel. In addition to the emperor of Germany, it is expected that the kings of Denmark, Greece, Belgium, Servia, Saxony and Portugal

NEW TAXES IN FRANCE.

Frenchmen, and Parisians in particular, are much concerned in the sweeping changes in taxation which have marked the birth of the new century, says a Paris correspondent. While no octroi tax will in future be imposed on wine, beer, perry and cider and such like beverages, yet those who drink alcoholic liquors will have to pay more for them. Frenchmen love their absinthe and brandy and the Englishmen in France their whisky; the latter drink has been increased to the extent of fivepence a bottle.

No octroi tax will be paid on nonintoxicating beverages entering Arles, a small city in the department of Jura, but any citizen importing a piano must pay eight shillings. It seems that the unmusical inhabitants have demanded the change.

Miss Ruth Corcoran very successfully entertained the members of the E. T. W. club at her home last evening at progressive pedro. Prizes were won by Mrs. Owen Corcoran and Frank Seltier and the consolations were won by Miss Frances Corcoran and Chris Steedman.

BRYAN'S PAPER

THE FIRST ISSUE OF THE COMMONER OUT.

IT HAS NEAT APPEARANCE

WHY MR. BRYAN CHOSE THE NAME FOR IT.

THE EDITORIAL SALUTATORY

HOPES TO MERIT THE NAME OF COMMONER.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 23.—The first number of "The Commoner," the weekly paper published by William J. Bryan, was issued this afternoon. It is a neat-appearing sheet, typographically. The following is the salutatory:

THE COMMONER.

Webster defines a commoner as "one of the common people." The name has been selected for this paper because The Commoner will endeavor to aid the common people in the protection of their rights, the advancement of their interests and the realization of their aspirations.

It is not necessary to apologize for the use of a term which distinguishes the great body of the population from the comparatively few, who, for one reason or another, withdraw themselves from sympathetic connection with their fellows. Among the Greeks "Hoi polloi" was used to describe the many, while among the Romans the word "plebs" was employed for the same purpose. These appellations, like "the common people," have been assumed with pride by those to whom they were applied, while they have been used as terms of reproach by those who counted themselves among the aristocratic classes. Within recent years there has been a growing tendency in some quarters to denounce as demogogic any reference to, or praise of, the common people.

One editor in a late issue of his paper takes exception to the phrase and says:

"This expression is an ill-chosen one and should have no lodgment in the vocabulary of an American patriot and statesman. If we sought its origin, we would look for it in that specious demagogy which has evolved the professional politician, arrayed country against town—the farmer and his sons and daughters against the business and professional men and their sons and daughters—capital against labor, and built up against neighbors the impregnable barriers of prejudice and hate."

This quotation is reproduced because it fairly represents the views of those who criticize the expression. It has, however, an eminently respectable origin. In the same chapter in which Christ condensed man's duty to his fellows into the commandment: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself;" in the same chapter in which he denounced those who devour widow's houses and for a pretense make long prayers—in this same chapter it is said of Him: "The common people heard Him gladly."

No higher compliment was ever paid to any class.

The term, the common people, is properly used to describe the large majority of the people—those who earn their living and give to society a fair return for the benefits bestowed by society—those who in their daily lives recognize the ties which bind together the mass of the people who have a common lot and a common hope. Sometimes they are called "the middle classes" because paupers and criminals are excluded on the one hand, while on the other hand some exclude themselves because of wealth or position or pride of birth. The common people form the industrious, intelligent and patriotic element of our population; they produce the nation's wealth in time of peace and fight the nation's battles in time of war. They are self-reliant and independent; they ask of government nothing but justice, and will not be satisfied with less. They are not seeking to get their hands into other people's pockets, but are content if they can keep other people's hands out of their pockets.

The common people do not constitute an exclusive society—they are not of the four hundred; any one can become a member if he is willing to contribute by brain or muscle to the nation's strength and greatness. Only those are barred and they are barred by their own choice who imagine themselves made of a superior kind of clay and who deny the equality of all before the law.

A rich man, who has honestly acquired his wealth and who is not afraid to entrust its care to laws made by his fellows, can count himself among the common people, while a poor man is not really not one of them if he fawns before a plutocrat and has no higher ambition than to be a courtier or a sycophant.

The Commoner will be satisfied if, by fidelity to the common people, it proves its right to the name which it has chosen.

DAVID GROVE DIES SUDDENLY

WELL-KNOWN FARMER SUCCUMBS TO APOPLEXY.

Stricken Tuesday Morning and Dies in a Few Hours Other Deaths and Funerals.

David Grove, a well-known Aboit township farmer, died at his home, eight and one-half miles west of this city, at 3:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from apoplexy, with which he had been stricken during the morning hours.

Mr. Grove arose Tuesday morning apparently in his usual good health, and attended to the work about his farm. About 9 o'clock he complained of a pain in his head, and two hours later was unconscious. A physician was hurriedly summoned, but the patient was beyond medical aid, and passed away without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Grove was sixty-two years, eleven months and one day of age, and was a most estimable citizen. He came to Allen county in 1872 from Ohio. Surviving are the widow and one daughter, Miss Matilda.

The funeral services will be held from the resident Friday morning at 11 o'clock. Interment at Oak Grove.

FUNERAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Coombs.—Funeral services of Mrs. Lillian M. Coombs will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 186 West Berry street. The interment at Lindenwood will be private.

Wink.—Funeral services of Mrs. Helena Wink will be held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 from the residence, 55 Madison street, and at 2 o'clock from St. John's Lutheran church, Rev. Danneker officiating.

VICTIMS OF THE FLAMES

ONE MAN DEAD AND TWO HAVE FATAL INJURIES.

Fire in a Lumber Town of Pennsylvania Destroys a Hotel and Causes Loss of Life.

Johnstown, Pa., Jan. 23.—One man was burned to death, two fatally injured and a dozen others slightly hurt by a fire in the lumber town of Ashtola, Somerset county, last night.

The dead: Samuel Dornafe, aged 35 years, of Williamsport, Pa., overcome by smoke while trying to escape and his body almost consumed in the flames.

Fatally injured: Charles W. Zimmerman, of Parkesville, Pa., aged 18 years, badly burned over the body; James Richard, of Hammel, Pa., aged 29 years, spine hurt in jumping from third story window.

The injuries of the others consisted of slight burns sprained ankles, in jumping and lacerated hands in breaking through window glass.

There were two buildings destroyed. They belonged to the Babcock Lumber company, of Pittsburg, by whom the men were employed and were used as lodging and boarding houses. The fire started at about 11:30 last night in the dining room of the boarding house and before it was discovered had gained such headway that escape by the stairs was impossible. The money loss will not be over $3,000, partially covered by insurance.

A GOOD MEETING.

The services at Wayne Street M. E. church last evening were better in attendance than on the previous evening and the interest manifestly deeper. The singing was good and inspiring. Rev. Fenwick Reed preached one of the strongest sermons yet heard and it made a deep impression on the audience. The growing interest is very apparent. Most instructive or faithful preaching has not been heard lately in Fort Wayne. The service this evening begins at 7:30.

RECRUITING OFFICE OPENED.

Lieutenant Edgar H. Yule, of the Second United States infantry, this morning opened a recruiting office in the rooms of the Foster block, formerly used as democratic headquarters. Privates W. C. Dobbins and Fred Layton are with Lieutenant Yule in the capacity of clerks.

Louis Welker, the popular grocery clerk who has been employed for the past six years at the White Front House, will occupy J. B. Certain's oil place on Wells street, the first of the month, with a line of groceries. Mr. Welker has lived in that neighborhood all his life and is well acquainted all over the city.

FLUE WAS DEFECTIVE

Fire resulting from a defective flue, got a start in the roof of a summer kitchen on the premises of John Welker at 124 Harrison street, shortly after 10 o'clock this morning, but was quickly extinguished by the department. The loss was merely nominal.

SCALD WAS FATAL

DEATH OF LITTLE THELMAR SHOEMAKER.

FELL INTO BOILER OF WATER

SAD AFFAIR IN A BUCHANAN STREET HOME.

PARENTS WERE BOTH ABSENT

LITTLE ONE LINGERS IN HOURS OF SUFFERING.

Thelmar, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shoemaker, of 314 Buchanan street, died at 1 o'clock this morning as the result of a distressing accident at the home just before noon on Tuesday. The mother was absent at the time, having gone to the depot to meet a sister, who was coming to make her a visit. Left at home was the little daughter, three years of ago, in charge of its grandmother.

The little one was in a room adjoining the kitchen when the grandmother lifted a wash boiler of nearly boiling water from the stove and placed it upon the floor. She left the room for a moment, but was soon recalled by the screams of the little one, who had scampered across the room and fallen into the boiler of steaming hot water. The grandmother dragged the little one from the water, and a physician was hurriedly summoned.

It was found that the entire right side of the little girl, from her foot to her shoulder, had been scalded in a frightful manner, so deeply that the skin dropped in great patches from the flesh. The burn was so extensive that medical skill was powerless to avert fatal consequences, and the babe died after more than twelve hours of suffering, retaining consciousness until within a few minutes of her death. The father of the little one, Frank Shoemaker, is a cigarmaker and is employed at Kendallville.

The remains will be shipped to Auburn, the former home of the family, at noon tomorrow.

THE WORK OF THE COUNCIL

MAYOR'S ILLNESS CAUSED HIS ABSENCE.

Important Matters Fixed for Attention Were Postponed Until His Honor is Present.

The city council met in regular session last evening. Owing to the illness of the mayor and his consequent absence, Councilman Bauer presided. It was expected that the reports of the various city departments would be read last night, together with the mayor's annual message, but the presentation of all these was postponed until such time as the mayor could be in attendance. The committee on rules was not yet ready to report on the electrical inspector ordinance and the matter was passed for the time. The committee on finance and the city attorney made a report on the communication of Comptroller Berghoff relating to the investment of idle city funds in improvement bonds. They recommended the investment of the electric light fund in city improvement bonds, but reported unfavorably on a similar investment of the sinking fund, having serious doubt of the legality of such a proceeding. After some discussion led by Mr. Hosey, the report of the committee was concurred in and the money named will be invested so as to bring a revenue to the city. The only other matter of consequence was a communication from the waterworks trustees asking to have a contract with the Shaw-Kendall company for a further test of the compressed air system ratified, and further asking permission to drill another ten-inch well at the north side station. They also wanted permission to drill a number of deep rock wells in case the compressed air system should prove a failure. The council went into committee of the whole to discuss the water question. The result of the secret deliberations was that orders to drill a 400 to 600-foot rock well were given, but the additional well supply was held in abeyance, as the council does not wish to anticipate a failure of the compressed air system. The contract with the Shaw-Kendall company was ratified.

ERECT AN ACADEMY THIS YEAR

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING FOR ST. PATRICK'S PARISH.

Increasing Number of Scholars Makes Additional Room Necessary.

On account of the rapidly increasing number of pupils in St. Patrick's school, there being now over 400, and the limited accommodations of the school, it has become necessary to have more room, and Rev. J. F. Delaney has decided to erect a new school building this summer.

While no definite plans have been made as yet, it is understood that the academy will be a substantial brick structure, three stories in height, and capable of accommodating a large number of girls who are at present attending the other school. The new school will be for girls only, and it will be built in the rear of the church and facing on DeWald street. The new academy will necessitate the addition of five sisters to the present teaching staff.

A considerable part of the necessary funds is on hand and no difficulty will be experienced in raising the remainder. Work on the new structure will commence as soon as the frost is out of the ground, and it is expected that it will be ready for occupation when school opens in September.

MORE SMALLPOX REPORTED.

Dr. Carl Schilling reported two new cases of smallpox in the family of Mrs. Mary J. Boland at 52 West Superior street. The board of health ordered cards placed on the building and the house and family quarantined.

GROWTH OF UNITED STATES.

The United States is now in population the second white man's country in the world, Russia being first. But, even with our declining rate of increase, we are growing much more rapidly than Russia. Our population now is a trifle more than hers was forty years ago. In the thirty-eight years between 1859 and 1897 Russia's population grew from 74,000,000 to 129,000,000—an increase of 74 per cent. Of this at least 7,000,000 must be credited to annexations. In the forty years between 1860 and 1900 we have grown from 31,443,321 to 76,295,220, an increase of 142 per cent., and this in spite of a destructive civil war and with practically no help from annexed territory.

The present population of those parts of the British empire in which the white inhabitants are not lost among a vast mass of colored natives is estimated at about 53,000,000. Germany has about 55,000,000. No other white man's country in the world has much over half our population. Canada, which is sometimes spoken of as a rival of the United States on this continent, has fewer inhabitants, by a wide margin, than either New York or Pennsylvania.—Saturday Evening Post.

Nearly 1,200 boys and girls are licensed by the city council of Liverpool to sell newspapers, matches, bootlaces, etc., upon the streets. Before the licenses are granted consent must be obtained of parents and guardians, as well as of the local school officials. The age limit for girls is from eleven to sixteen years and for boys from eleven to fourteen years. No child is allowed to peddle in the streets after 9 o'clock in the evening.

KING EDWARD VII. OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND

Albert Edward, prince of Wales, who by the death of his mother, Victoria, has become Edward VII., king of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India, received the name Albert after his father and Edward after the duke of Kent, his grandfather. The prince was born in Buckingham palace November 9, 1841. The title of duke of Cornwall fell upon him at birth, he being the oldest son of the ruler, and he was made prince of Wales and earl of Chester before he had lived a month. The other titles that fell upon this son of royalty were the duke of Rothesay, duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, prince of Saxony, earl of Carrick, earl of Dublin, Baron Renfrew and lord of the Isles.

The baptism was performed in St. George's chapel, Windsor, with great ceremony in January, 1842, and the early education of the child who was heir to the throne was intrusted to Lady Lyttleton, a sister to Mrs. Gladstone. Lady Lyttleton cared for the mental training of the prince, as well as the royal children who followed him, until he was six years old. The following year Rev. Henry Mildren Birch was appointed tutor and served until 1851, when he was succeeded for seven years by Frederick W. Gibbs. Later the prince took a course of study in Edinburgh, and was an undergraduate in Trinity college, Cambridge, in 1861. On his eighteenth birthday he was made a colonel in the army, with Colonel Bruce as his governor. He received the Order of the Garter on the same day.

FIRST OFFICIAL APPEARANCE.

The first official appearance of the young prince was at the opening of the coal exchange in London October 30, 1849. The queen was detained by sickness and was represented by the prince and the princess royal. He also assisted in the opening of the exposition in 1851, and was present with the queen at the house of lords for the first time when the answers to her message announcing the opening of the Crimean war were read.

The prince of Wales has traveled extensively. At the age of seven he journeyed to Ireland for the first time, and in 1855 visited Paris with his parents and the princess royal. With his tutor, Mr. Gibbs, and Colonel Clavendish, the prince walked through the western part of England incognito when fourteen years old, and later visited for some time in Germany. Many journeys to all parts of the continent were taken, the prince generally going incognito under the name of Baron Renfrew.

VISITS AMERICA.

The prince decided to visit Canada and the United States in 1860. Arriving at St. John's, he visited Niagara Falls and traveled west to Chicago, where he was met enthusiastically, although he followed his custom of using the name of Baron Renfrew. The prince went from Chicago to St. Louis and arrived in Washington late in October, where he met President Buchanan and spent several days in the white house. He visited Washington's tomb, Philadelphia, Richmond, New York and Albany. In Boston he was introduced to Longfellow, Holmes and Emerson. He sailed home from Portland, Maine. The following year he again traveled on the continent of Europe and later spent some time in Egypt and the holy land.

MARRIAGE AND FAMILY.

While on this visit to Europe the prince of Wales met the Princess Alexandra of Denmark, and their betrothal was announced September 9, 1862. The wedding ceremony took place in St. George's chapel at Windsor March 10 of the following year, and the prince and his wife furnished an establishment at Sandringham. Prince George of Wales was the first child, born in 1865.

Ireland received a visit from the prince and his wife five years after they were married, and in 1868 they traveled extensively through the east, returning through Russia. The prince made his memorable visit to India in 1875.

The death of William I. of Germany caused the celebration of the prince and princess' anniversary to be a quiet one. The eldest daughter, Princess Louise, was married to the earl of Fife in 1889. The prince figured as a witness in the famous baccarat case in 1891. The Princess Maud of Wales was married to Prince Charles of Denmark in 1896.

DEVOTED TO SPORT.

For many years Albert Edward has been a champion of outdoor sport, and each year his stable carries away a list of the most costly prizes offered by the English turf. In 1900 he headed the list of winning owners, gaining the "triple crown" by capturing the Derby, the St. Leger and the two thousand guineas races. His winnings for the season amounted to $148,000. Horse racing is his principal pastime and his influence has done much to make the English turf freer from fraud than that of any other racing country in the world.

FAVORS ALLIANCE.

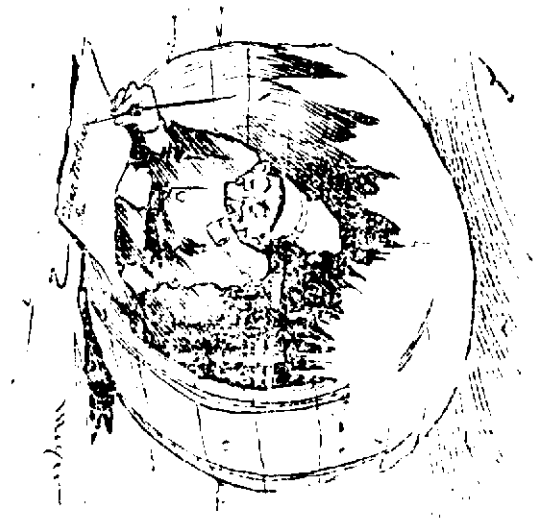
While he spends much time in the interest of his stable, there is no one more interested in national affairs than he, and he is a frequent visitor at the house of lords. His attitude on public questions has rarely been expressed, and even those most intimate with him are not able to tell with certainty his position on affairs of state. He has shown, however, that he inherits his mother's desire to form closer compacts with the United States and his influence has helped Americans to gain admission to English society.

MOST PROMINENT MASON.

Edward VII. is the most prominent living Free Mason. He is grand master of the grand lodges of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, and is also grand prior of the order of Knights Templar in England and grand patron of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Free Masonry in the United Kingdom, having received the thirty-third and last degree in that branch of Free Masonry.

For more than thirty-two years he has been identified with the Masonic order. There is not a member throughout th world who takes a deeper or more active interest in its welfare. In the exalted position which he occupies by reason of his royal station and his high office in Masonry, he fully exemplifies through his personal contact with his Masonic brethren when visiting the various bodies with which he is affiliated the equality upon which all free masons stand when meeting as such, social lines being relaxed to a remarkable degree. Masonry everywhere receives his hearty and unqualified support and his presence at important Masonic functions is always sought for and usually with success.

He has long been acknowledged the social leader of England, and for years his will has set the style for men of dress and fashion. Of late years it is said his toilet does not receive the time and thought that it once did.



ECONOMICAL.

Dear Mother:—My birthday will soon be here, and as I write this I sit with my window open. Think of doing this in New York in January.

The state authorities of Delaware are inclined to abolish the whipping post for offenders, though there are several objections in the official circle. The people in the rural districts are, however, in favor of it, as they believe that the small percentage of burglaries and similar offenses in the state is due to the cat-o'-nine-tails infliction. It seems as if the whipping post was planted among the blue hen's chickens to stay.

How Old She Looks

Poor clothes cannot make you look old. Even pale cheeks won't do it. One thing does it, and never fails. It is impossible to look young with the color of seventy years in your hair.

Ayer's Hair Vigor permanently postpones the tell-tale signs of age. It brings back the color of youth. At fifty your hair may look as it did at fifteen. It thickens the hair also, and stops it from falling out.

One dollar a bottle.

If your druggist cannot supply you, send us $1.00 and we will express a bottle to you, all charges prepaid. Be sure and give us your nearest express office.

HAS ANOTHER KICK COMING.

William Kaiser, whose letter was printed a few days ago, continues to aspire to literary distinction. He finds solace in the fact that Mr. McCulloch can afford to lose his hogs without embarrassment, but deplores the rapacity of the officers who took away from him his winter supply of meat. He writes another letter to The Sentinel, which is appended hereto:

"Jail Jan. 22, 1900—Readers of Sentinel—The writer Will Kaiser The Reckard Bracker supposed ring leader of Hog thief Gang Who leaves for penntentiry to seavre 2 to 14 years for A Crime committed to keep women and child from starvation & his own body and soul together Kicks once more, says that it I am satisfied by Knoing that Banker McCulloch of whom Hogs were stole could afford loss better than any one without missing it. As with Kuhns to it seems I've been cudzed, every theft commited recently for which officers could find no one, was placed on me. I must suffer for what happened but still think that the Hogs shcud not been taken away from us as we have to pay for it quite expensively.

"William Kaiser."

CAMP AND FOOD.

Getting Close to Nature.

It would hardly seem possible to some people that a man could, on food, cure himself of tuberculosis. "I was sent by my doctor to camp in the mountains and to live largely on Grape-Nuts food. My case was pronounced tuberculosis of the bladder by a famous New York specialist, the best authority of all American specialists in that line.

"I went into camp and used Grape-Nuts as I would meat, bread or potatoes. I was careful not to over-eat, but used the food three times a day, and at the end of 10 weeks went for a new examination, when not a trace of tuberculosis could be found. My physician looked at me and said, 'I don't believe there is such a marvelous case as this on record.'

"Both the doctor and myself give the credit to Grape-Nuts food. To be sure, I took outdoor exercise, and this no doubt helped me some, but with all the outdoor air and exercise in the world I could not build up my blood to a condition where it would kill off the bacilli unless I had good food of the character of Grape-Nuts to do it on. For family reasons I wish to avoid having my name appear in public print." Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., will furnish this name upon application.

GIRL STOLE A HORSE.

Columbia City, Ind., Jan. 23.—Miss Maud Leach, sixteen years of age, is in jail here in default of $300 bonds to answer to the charge of horse stealing. The girl is a daughter of Sylvanus Leach, and has been incorrigible for some time. She kept house for two old bachelors who reside near Luther, but Monday packed her clothing and left unceremoniously. She was walking to South Whitley when she was overtaken by Mrs. Allen Pence, who invited her to get in her buggy and ride to town. This she girl did, and some hours later unhitched the horse from the rack and drove out of town. After an all-night search she was located by officers at Packerton. She was arrested and taken to South Whitley, and when asked by the sheriff why she had stolen the horse replied: "Just to have a good time, and you bet I had it."

Mrs. Nation seems determined to keep up the reputation of Kansas as the best place on earth to raise something besides wheat and corn.

An experimental crop of broom corn has proved so successful in Florida that the product of thirty-one acres is valued at $3,000. The people of the south, and especially Florida, are fast learning that it is unwise to put all their eggs in one basket. Diversified farming is being made to pay in that section and it may be attributed very largely to the good advice received from the north.

This will be an "off year" in politics, so far as general elections are concerned, but it will be a big year for municipal contests of far-reaching importance. Philadelphia will set the ball a-rolling by voting for a number of important officers next month. Chicago will follow in the spring, at which time several other cities will hold important elections, and finally New York and the bulk of the cities will wind up with contests in the fall that promise to be unusually exciting.

German census figures show that the movement of population cityward has been much more marked in that country in the last five years than in the United States. All the big cities of the German empire show a heavy increase in population, ranging from 21 to 60.6 per cent., during the last five years. That American cities have not grown at so rapid a rate is probably due to the greater degree of perfection reached in suburban transportation in this country. To be quite fair the population of a city should be based upon its "sphere of influence" and not upon the number of persons residing within its political boundaries. If such a system were adopted the growth of American cities would probably be found to be enormous.

BRITAIN'S KING.

Albert Edward ascends the British throne as Edward VII. with a difficult role to fill aside from the natural responsibilities of the hereditary ruler of the empire. Doubtless he will prove to be a monarch of kingly parts. He has reached a later stage of life, he is intimate with the affairs of his realm and its interrelations with the governments of the world, he has good mental poise, he has the esteem and very likely the affections of his subjects, and above all he has the immediate example of his late mother's long and successful reign. His acquaintance is wider than that of any other living monarch. He is popular at every court in Europe. He is familiar with the trend and with the intricacies of old world policies and new world aspirations. He takes up the scepter well equipped in his own royal person to wield it. He will no doubt wield it happily for his house and for his people. Yet his task is difficult. There are few of his subjects old enough to not associate the headship of the state with "the queen." Victoria reigned sixty-four years. It will be a long time before Edward's subjects are able to comport their minds naturally to the great change death has wrought. The sentiment that for more than three score years done homage to the great and good queen will unconsciously pay that homage still. It will be difficult to realize that Edward and not Victoria wears the crown.

King Edward's rule will no doubt be pleasing and prosperous. He has a natural conservatism and to an eminent degree the tact so essential to the tranquility of royal heads. Whether or not he has the capacity and taste for the labors of state that in so marked a degree distinguished his royal mother remains to be seen. The character of his reign will be determined largely by his purpose to be ruler or merely a crowned and sceptered figurehead.

CARRIED TOO FAR.

The Fear of Being Deceived or Humbugged Prevents Many People From Trying a Good Medicine.

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such people pride themselves on their acuteness in never being humbugged, especially in medicine.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made for a remedy so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary patent medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine; no secret is made of the ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin (government test) Golden Seal and diastase. They are not cathartic neither do they act powerfully on any particular organ, but they cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten, thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles, because they act only on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals, digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food, not digested or half-digested is poison, as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh and appetite and many other troubles, which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere in the United States, Great Britain and Canada.

Buy the Eclipse. Take no other if you want the best cigar to be had for 5 cents.

RURAL DELIVERY SIGNALS.

The rural carriers are governed by the same rules as the carriers of the city delivery service; they wear the same uniform, provided at their own cost, and each has furnished himself with a special delivery wagon with "Postal Wagon U. S. Mail" painted on the front and sides, with a glass front, and is fitted up with pigeonholes, in which the carrier sorts his mail as he goes along. There is also a contrivance for heating the wagon in cold weather. All the boxes along the routes are of galvanized iron, of uniform size, painted and closely resembling the regulation boxes used in cities, and are nailed on posts of such height as to bring them to a level with the postal wagon. As he drives up alongside the box the carrier opens his sliding door and drops the mail in the box, at the same time raising a zinc signal which is rivveted to the box. If there is any mail for him to collect he finds this signal raised; if he has none to deliver in return he turns the signal down. If the signal is not raised, and he has no mail to deliver at the box, he drives by without stopping.—Pearson's Magazine.

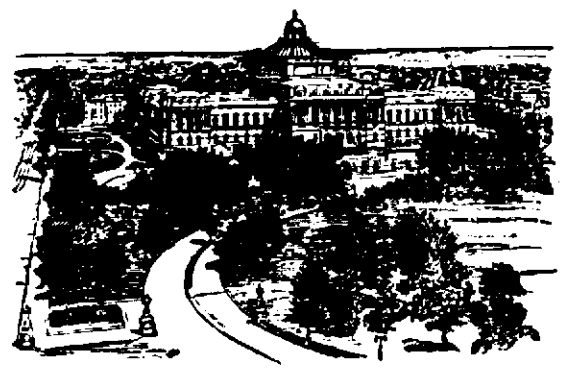
THE ARCHITECT

Of the World's Finest Library Building Recommends Peruna for Catarrh.



CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Hon. I. S. Smithmeyer, architect of the new Congressional Library of Washington, D. C., ranks first in his profession in this country. This library is considered the finest building in the United States. Mr. Smithmeyer spent sixteen years traveling in Europe working on the plans, and Congress appropriated six million dollars for this building.

In a letter written from Washington and dated July 4th, 1899, to The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O., Mr. Smithmeyer says the following in regard to Peruna, the world-renowned catarrh cure:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 4, 1899.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—I endorse the good opinion expressed by Senators and Representatives in Congress regarding the curative qualities of your compound. Those who have used it recommend it as an excellent tonic which is particularly effective as a cure for catarrh.

Respectfully,
I. S. Smithmeyer.

One of the most wonderful events in the history of medicine is the multitude of remarkable endorsements which Peruna is receiving as a catarrh cure from men and women of national importance. During the past two years a large number of people well known from ocean to ocean, have in glowing words of unstinted praise made Peruna the most famous and justly celebrated catarrh remedy in the world.

Men high in our national councils, statesmen known the world over, distinguished officers in the army and navy, physicians, lawyers, preachers, and last but not least, an innumerable company of people in the common walks of life, have all joined to place Peruna on the highest pedestal of honor that any remedy has ever reached in the history of medicine.

There can be no further question that Peruna is the catarrh remedy of the age. It has no rival. There are no substitutes. Peruna stands alone as a systemic catarrh cure which will cure catarrh in all phases and stages.

Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh. Sent free by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

FUEL GAS IN ENGLAND.

In the next session of parliament power is to be sought for the carrying out of a huge scheme for the manufacture and supply of fuel gas in the Midlands. The gas, which is called Mond gas, after its inventor, Dr. Ludwig Mond, is produced from a cheap form of bituminous coal, or black, suitable for use in large gas engines; and it is reported that by means of power obtained in this way electricity can be generated for less than one-twentieth of a penny per unit. From particulars which have been published in the Gas World it appears that the charge for the gas is not to exceed 3d per thousand cubic feet if the quantity taken per quarter is not less than 4,000,000 cubic feet, and that for smaller quantities than that the charge is not to exceed 4d per thousand cubic feet. The gas is suitable for all purposes save that of illumination.

Woman's Life Saved.

A rather curious case came to our attention of a woman in Detroit whose life was saved "several times," so she says, by Athlo-pho-ros. Once is a good record, but "several times" makes her a warm advocate of Athlo-pho-ros whenever rheumatism is mentioned—you can write to her if you want it—Kate Nannin, 160 12th St., Detroit, Mich. She says Athlo-pho-ros is the best and only medicine that will cure rheumatism, "because it has cured me," and she says "the swelling and intense pain ceased within five minutes after the first dose." She further says, "the disease has no more dread for me as long as Athlo-pho-ros can be obtained." What I need on the desert I will do for anyone.

THE DAY AT THE CITY HALL

THE POLICE DRAGNET SCORES A LIGHT HAUL.

A Colored Gentleman Will Think It Over—Practical Jokers Will be Arrested—Committee to Meet.

Police court was considerable of a frost this morning, there being but one offender to face Acting Mayor Yancey. William Glover, a gentleman of color, was charged with being drunk. When asked about it he said he wasn't quite sure whether he was drunk or not. He said he felt kind o' queer and his feet refused to track properly, but that may have been the fault of his feet; anyway, he was not quite sure and was willing to take the benefit of the doubt. The judge told him to take eleven days in jail and think the matter over and let him know some time what he thought about it.

Detective Streifling filed an affidavit against Bixler, senior, for concealing stolen property. A horse brush valued at $1.50, identified as the property of Charles McCulloch, was found in the search the other day. Bixler's arrest will be made today.

An alarm from box 42 called the fire department to the residence of Dan Hurley, at 46 East Butler street, at 3 o'clock this morning. A small fire was discovered in the kitchen and was put out with a nominal loss.

The patrol wagon was called to Romany avenue last evening. A family row had been in progress, but as everything was serene when the officers arrived there were no arrests.

The police are on the lookout for a tramp who endeavored to steal an overcoat at the Pennsylvania railroad dining room last night. A gentleman had laid his coat on a chair, when the tramp appropriated it and walked out. The owner of the coat saw him just as he was passing through the door and followed him. The tramp went into the closet and the man stood guard outside waiting for the appearance of an officer. Presently the tramp peeked out and seeing the man still on guard went back. The man then started to hunt an officer and the fellow, seeing the coast clear, laid the coat on the floor and got away.

Officer Elliott reported having found a horse and buggy on the street. He quartered it in a stable to await an owner.

The wheel reported by J. West to have been stolen turned up all right and it was learned that the wheel was taken by a friend simply as a joke. The police are getting tired of these "jokes" and will arrest the next joker they can find. The nuisance is a great one. A man will report to the police that his bicycle is stolen and the officers are kept on the lookout for the stolen property and examine every wheel they see that at all answers the description. This is an annoyance to the officers and the owner of the wheel alike. In the meantime the other fellow, the one who reported the stolen wheel, learns that his friend had taken it as a "joke." They laugh over the matter and take a glass of beer or two and prod each other in the ribs and consider the joke immense. Meantime the officers are not notified and go right on examining suspicious looking bicycles and annoying innocent persons. The fellows never notify the police of the recovery of their wheels, but allow them to find it out the best way they can. An arrest of a practical joker or two will have a tendency to make the trick look less funny after awhile.

The door of Helmkamp's saloon was found open at 2 o'clock this morning by Officer Rohrer. The proprietor was notified.

The committee on contracts and franchises will meet tomorrow night and will undertake to get rid of all the franchises now before it. These include the Decatur electric road, the New Haven road and the District telegraph.

Mayor Scherer has recovered from the grip sufficiently to attend to some of his office duties today.

gal will attend, together with many lesser rulers.

All England will participate in the funeral of the queen. From the time these ceremonies begin at Osborne house until the body is buried at Frogmore, there will be funeral and memorial services throughout the English-speaking world.

There has been no burial of a sovereign in England for nearly sixty-four years. Since the obsequies of William IV. the world has moved forward so far that even the funeral of a British monarch will be utterly unlike that of any that has gone before.

It is believed that a simple ceremony will be held at Osborne house and that the body of the queen will be placed in the royal yacht and conveyed to Portsmouth.

A funeral train will take the royalty and the mourning family to London. At the stations along the route the crape covered train will be met by the mourning people with bared heads. It will arrive at Victoria station.

The millions of the metropolis will lay aside the ordinary duties and pleasures for the day, all places of amusement and of gain will be closed, and all the populace will gather to mourn the queen and do her honor.

IN JUSTICES' COURT.

Rose Cotterman, arrested for eloping from her Ohio home with another man, was discharged by Justice Bollenman yesterday, her husband failing to appear against her. The justice says she told a very straight story of abuse and neglect and thinks that she is a better woman than the husband is a man.

Aniss Beales was fined $1 and costs by Justice Franke for assault and battery on Louis Girardot.

Myrtle Miller has filed a complaint in Justice Franke's court charging Bird Allen with illegitimate parentage. The hearing is set for 4 o'clock this afternoon. Both the parties live in this city.

HER HUSBAND'S FAMILY.

An engaged girl is often a very foolish girl with regard to her future husband's relatives. She looks at them with coldness, as people who suppose themselves to have more right in her lover than she herself has. She does not care particularly about them, perhaps, and thinks them frumpy or over particular, and she takes little pains to hide that they don't interest her. She seems to expect that he will lose his old closeness of relation with his own people at once and adopt hers in their stead. She is impatient and resentful of any claim they make to his time or notice, and thinks she ought to have the monopoly, says the Toronto News. This is not only wrong; it is foolish as well.

She should remember that, after all, his own family has the prior right and that it needs a good deal of unselfishness and self-effacement to resign that right without a pang to a strange girl, if even it is a girl he loves. She should think that to even the most generous of mothers it is a hard thing to part with her son to another woman, and the more she herself loves that son, the more she ought to understand his mother's love and sympathize with it.

She ought to reflect that upon her attitude now toward her fiance's people much of the happiness or the discomfort of her future life will rest. She ought to realize what a terrible responsibility she is taking on herself if she does anything to sever the close bond between her husband and his people. It is inevitable that if she makes a faction against them he will side with her, and by how small a difference may she make a quarrel that will break the old affection for life.

Her aim should be to win their liking and their confidence, no matter how little congenial she may chance to find them, and it does not always follow that because she loves a man she finds his family lovable, too. She should make up her mind to put up with much, if needs be, to endure and to be patient and to overlook. She must realize that from henceforth his people are her own people, and that if she is not prepared to take the rough with the smooth in that relation she had better let the whole thing go. A girl who really loves the man she is to marry will not need to be told much of what it is right to do in this respect.

ADVERTISES HER COLONIES.

One of the most significant and impressive recent movements in Germany is the colonial exhibition. Nearly every town of any prominence has had one of these exhibitions, or is about to have one. They are given under the auspices of the best families of the place, with the ladies of society in charge of the booths. One of these exhibitions held at Jena recently occupied a large hall, and it consisted of sample products from German colonies, of maps showing the location of foreign German possessions, and of innumerable photographs of scenery, colonial life and so on. Circulars describing the colonies, inviting immigration and giving all manner of information were distributed free. As a side department there was a naval and shipping exhibit, which made the usual strong plea for more ships.—McClure's Magazine.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 22, 1901.
To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council.

Gentlemen: We, your committee to whom was referred the communication of the controller in regard to the purchase of bonds respectfully report that we believe it to be wise and profitable for the city to invest all moneys on hand in the electric light construction fund as speedily as possible in 5 per cent city improvement bonds, and that the interest derived thereon be semi-annually added to said fund, at the same time giving the comptroller the right to use some of said bonds when necessary to carry against the pre-paid street assessments and replace them with said funs as soon as new bonds are issued. We submit the proper resolution for that purpose.

In regard to the investment of sinking funds in municipal bonds we ask for further time.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 22, 1901.
To the Common Council of the City.

Gentlemen: We, your committee appointed to act jointly with the board of water works trustees, relative to an increased water supply at north side station, and other matters pertaining to the water works department, would report as follows:

Under date of November 21, 1900, we recommended the approval of a contract entered into by and between the board of water works trustees and the Shaw-Kendall Eng. Co., for the purpose of making a test of the nine wells at north side station with the view of ascertaining what quantity of water could be obtained from said wells with the compressed air system.

Said contract provided for the pumping up of 6 rock wells in said system, with the air lift, and the installation of compressors with the capacity to pump said wells simultaneously and continuously for the period of 30 days.

The purpose of said test was to show:

1st. What amount of water said 6 wells would supply by said system of pumping.

2nd. What effect the pumping of said 6 wells would have upon the remaining wells.

3rd. The approximate amount of water that could be obtained from the present system of wells, and adjacent territory, by means of this system.

4th. The approximate cost of pumping 2,000 gallons of water with the air lift system, and delivering same at the receiving well.

In accordance with said contract the Shaw-Kendall people have dug and made individual tests of eight of said rock wells.

The contract provided that three wells in the south system and three wells in the north system be piped up and connected with the syphon lines, and this having been done on December 5th the discharge from the three wells in the south system was turned into the syphon line and a few days later the three wells in the north system having been connected up, the discharge from same was also turned into the syphon line and conducted to the receiving well.

Then a serious proposition arose, as the Shaw-Kendall Co. by the terms of their contract were obliged to deliver the water from said 6 wells under test to the syphon lines and conduct the same into the receiving well, to enable it also to deliver the water pumped, and in order to make known to do it successfully it became necessary for them to cut off the entire section of rock and gravel walls consisting of a total of 12 rock walls and 20 gravel walls, and repair materials for the water supply at this station. During the continuance of the test upon that furnished to said contractors by the Shaw-Kendall Co. Your committee was constantly present and received from the [illegible] reports [illegible] Said test [illegible] of almost one and one-half million gallons an amount of water about equal to the amount previously obtained by the former method of pumping [illegible]

[illegible] of fifty weeks at the date of the commencement of this test.

This water was sufficient to overflow the [illegible] of any reasonable requirements of the residents of an immediate vicinity of water at that point, and that all that is necessary is the replacement of the proper valves to obtain it.

Your committee has kept complete and accurate [illegible] of [illegible] in this test from the beginning of the same to the close, by making daily visits to the station and personally ascertaining results, supervising the measurement of the amount of water pumped each day, [illegible] the engine, water [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

No External Symptoms.

The blood may be in bad condition, yet with no external signs, no skin eruption or sores to indicate it. The symptoms in such cases being a variable appetite, poor digestion, an indescribable weakness and nervousness, loss of flesh and a general run-down condition of the system—clearly showing the blood has lost its nutritive qualities, has become thin and watery. It is in just such cases that S. S. S. has done some of its quickest and most effective work by building up the blood and supplying the elements lacking to make it strong and vigorous.

"My wife used several bottles of S. S. S. as a blood purifier and to build up a weak and emaciated system, with very marked effect by way of improvement. "We regard it a great tonic and blood purifier."—J. F. DUFF, Princeton, Mo.

SSS is the greatest of all tonics, and you will find the appetite improves at once, strength returns, and nervousness vanishes as new rich pure blood once more circulates through all parts of the system.

S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known. It contains no minerals whatever. Send for our free book on Blood and skin diseases and write our physicians for any information or advice wanted. No charge for such advice.

UNITE IN TRIBUTE

BRIEF FUNERAL SERVICE FOR HON. R. C. BELL TODAY.

BEAUTIFUL IN SIMPLICITY

A THRONG OF SORROWING FRIENDS WAS PRESENT.

THE BAR HONORS HIS MEMORY

INTERMENT WILL OCCUR AT MUNCIE TOMORROW.

Brief funeral services for Hon. Robert C. Bell were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and hundreds of close personal friends of Mr. Bell, from private, professional and political life, thronged the elegant residence on West Wayne street to honor the memory of the dead jurist, and to take a farewell look at his well-known features.

The service was beautifully simple and impressive; there was no ostentation or display, but hearts that plainly told of sorrow's touch were bowed in honor and respect for the illustrious life that had closed. The Allen County Bar association attended in a body, as did also the Fort Wayne lodge of Elks, and there were also large representations from other societies with which Mr. Bell had been identified, as well as many close friends of the family.

Rev. Marion Crosley, pastor of the Universalist church at Indianapolis, who reached the city this morning, conducted the services, paying a brief but eloquent tribute to the sterling qualities of his dead friend. The Haydn quartet rendered the musical service, and at the close the friends were permitted to file past the casket for a final view of the dead jurist's face.

APPEARANCE LIFELIKE.

The remains rested in a magnificent state casket of black broadcloth near the center of the large reception room. The trimmings of the casket were in perfect taste, the extension handles of oxydized silver and ebony, while a plate of the same material across the lid of the casket bore the simple inscription:

. . . . . .

: Robert C. Bell. :

. . . . . .

The features of the dead lawyer, though somewhat wasted by disease, had a remarkably life-like appearance, and were as if in natural repose. Surrounding the casket were the floral offerings, profuse and elaborately beautiful. Conspicuous among them was an immense elk's head wrought from white carnations, the offering of the Fort Wayne lodge of Elks. Other societies also sent offerings, and the remembrances from friends at home and abroad contributed materially to the generous profusion of floral beauty, one of the most notable ever seen in the city.

AT MUNCIE TOMORROW.

The funeral service proper will be held at Muncie tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the Universalist church. The funeral party will leave in a special car over the Lake Erie and Western railroad at 7:10 o'clock. The pall-bearers selected are Hon. S. E. Morss, of Indianapolis; Hon. Ralph S. Gregory, of Muncie; Judge Allen Zollars, C. D. Gorham, A. J. Moynihan, William M. McKinnie, Judge Edward O'Rourke and H. C. Hanna.

Mr. Morss and Mr. Gregory will meet the funeral train at Muncie. Rev. Crosley will deliver the discourse at Muncie, and the interment will be in that city.

A GEM FROM HIS PEN.

A Fort Wayne friend has produced the following fragment of verse written by Mr. Bell ten years ago, and it is here reproduced because it gives a glimpse of a glimpse into the hopeful spirit and poetic temperament of the eminent lawyer:

A FRAGMENT.

A hope and fear are ever near.
The one with light, the other gloom.
Yet come we sunny, or night or day,
With winter's frost or summer's bloom.

The light, glad past is cast at last,
With all its memories dear.
Let's keep the load a bit dreary road,
Though we go with bleeding feet.
The good God knows our joy and woes,
Our faults and failings all;
How weak our wills, how great our ills,
How poor we are to fall.

R. C. B.

Fort Wayne, 1890.

TRIBUTE OF THE BAR.

Pursuant to the public call, the Allen County Bar association met at the circuit court room at 10 o'clock to take suitable action on the death of its illustrious member. The attendance was full, comprising nearly every attorney practicing at the local bar. The association was called to order by President Allen Zollars, who announced that he had already appointed a committee on resolutions who had prepared a report to be presented. The action of the president was confirmed and he was named as permanent chairman of the meeting and W. H. Shambaugh was named as secretary, with F. C. Jenne and H. C. Underwood as assistants.

The report of the resolution committee was read by Col. R. S. Robertson as follows:

IN MEMORIAM.
Robert Clark Bell.
Born Clarksburg, Indiana, July 13, 1844.
Died Fort Wayne, Indiana, January 21, 1901.

The Allen county bar mourns the loss of one of its most illustrious members, and its mourning is deep, heartfelt and sincere.

For nearly thirty years we have felt his influence in the halls of justice on the hustings and in the jolly feats of the arteries of business, and it has been no small factor in moulding the character and reputation of the legal profession and of the courts.

His busy life work ended, it is fitting to pass in brief review a summary of his career, and record our appreciation of his virtues.

Born in rural surroundings, his parents pioneer tillers of the soil, proud of that distinction and that his ancestors were of the yeomanry of Virginia and Kentucky, his boyhood days were spent upon a farm, where he became inured to all the labors and hardships incidental to the pioneer days of southern Indiana, and laid the foundations of his education in and graduated from the log school house, to become the teacher of a district school, in which study and avocation he drew the inspiration for his future life.

The civil war and his participation in it, disarranged his plans of study, but at its close he entered the University of Michigan and finished by taking its law course.

He was admitted to the bar at Kenosha in 1868, and became the assistant of Hon. Alfred Kilgore, who then held the position of United States district attorney for Indiana. Here he exhibited talent of a high degree, and demonstrated his ability as a lawyer.

In 1871 he came to Fort Wayne and entered the practice of his profession as the associate of another surpassingly gifted lawyer and lovable gentleman, the two making a law firm of remarkable strength and character.

From that time his standing at the bar was assured. He took high rank and maintained it. Later, as partner in, or head of some of the most notable legal combinations in the state, he steadily grew into public favor, and served a clientage composed of the most powerful corporations, and the lowliest of the common people, bringing to the service of both all the powers of a great intellect, and the most conscientious labor a lawyer can give to his client.

He possessed a mind which seemed at once to grasp the point which others reached only by slow process of study and reflection, and his arguments before courts and juries were clear, forceful and convincing, and so persuasive that his opponents might well say, "Almost thou persuadest me."

It is difficult to say whether the logic of his arguments or the eloquence with which he was richly gifted, had the most to do with his success. That he was a successful practitioner, that he rose to great heights in his professional career, is too well known to be questioned and that he deserved the rank accorded him by his clientele and associates at the bar is also beyond dispute.

In the field of politics, or well as in the legal arena, he was always a powerful ally, a dangerous foe. As a state senator for two terms he won the love of his party and the regard of his political opponents.

At one period, had he been willing to quit his profession, he could have commanded the highest honors in the gift of his party in the state. As it was, he contented himself with slight wears of senatorial honors and labors, with being a delegate-at-large to the democratic national convention of 1896, the presidency of the democratic state convention of 1899, and such willing and able service as he could render his party at the hustings in each and every campaign, including that of 1900.

Eloquent, great in speech, charming in manner, and ready in political contests he was always in demand for occasions where the feast of reason and flow of soul was desired, and rarely did he disappoint his eager listeners. With a mind well cultured, well stored, and ready for all occasions with refined and poetic taste, with sparkling wit, and a deep sense of humor, he was always an entertaining guest, where he was not the charming entertainer. He was of a lovable nature. Even when armed for the fray he was courtly and courteous in demeanor. Seldom few personalities embitter his forensic efforts. When they did, none was readier to atone, if at fault, and few so ready to assert that he alone was at fault.

His social habits led him to affiliation with the Masonic order, the Odd Fellows, the Calithumpians, the Elks and the Grand Army of the Republic, in each of which bodies he held high rank, and was always gladly welcomed to its gatherings.

A lover of books, his quick mind gathered in and kept in the chambers of his brain, ready for instant use, the best thoughts of the world's best thinkers, in poetry and in prose. His library, with aim in it, was a place which none but his chosen friends could learn the secret of the enduring charm which ever led them back to it.

For us, the eloquent, persuasive voice is stilled forever.

The sterling qualities of brain and heart appeal to us for remembrance.

If our brother sometimes gave offense, and who does not, let offenses and foibles be sunk in the waters of Lethe and let only the courteous gentleman, the daring and knightly opponent, the student and thinker, the eloquent and able lawyer, the loving and steadfast friend be remembered. Take all in all, we shall

Not look upon his like again.

The good God knows our joys and woes,
Our faults and failings all;
How weak our wills, how great our ills,
How poor we are to fall.

You will note the above the following resolution.

That the foregoing memorial be ordered upon the records of the circuit and superior courts, that a transcript be furnished to the press for publication, and that a suitable engrossed copy be sent to the widow of the deceased as a testimonial of the regard of his associates for their departed brother.

After the reading of the resolutions and their adoption, the association was addressed by Judge John Morris, Judge Edward O'Rourke, Judge L. M. Nirdlinger, Judge John Aiken, Hon. W. P. Breen, Homer C. Hartman, John Morris, jr., and others, all of whom spoke feelingly of their deceased brother.

CALEDONIANS' MEMORIAL.

At the meeting of the Caledonian society Tuesday evening the following tender and graceful tribute to the late Robert C. Bell was adopted:

It is with profound sorrow this society learns of the death this evening of the Hon. Robert C. Bell, who for many years has been an honorary member.

No choicer spirit, no more genial companion, no more generous nature than his. His retentive memory made him a treasury of the books he read; especially endearing was he when reciting from the storehouse of his memory from his favorite authors, none of whom he prized more highly than the Scottish poet Burns. He seemed to enter into the very spirit and soul of the author and his hearers were often struck with the depth of meaning he brought out from the simple language. It was music to the ear and thrilled the whole being to listen to him.

Like his favorite author in many ways, he was a lover of nature. He had no use for cant and hypocrisy he abhorred. Glorious in his intellectual character, magnanimous in his moral, in his patriotism he was sublime. We prize him for his greatness and sympathize with him in his weakness and, in the language of his beloved poet, say:

"Who made the heart, 'tis He alone
Decidedly can try us;
He knows each chord its various tone,
Each spring its various bias.
Then at the balance let's be mute;
We never can adjust it;
What's done we partly can compute,
But know not what's resisted."

There is but one other honorary member of our society and it will be some time before the place of Robert C. Bell in our ranks can be filled.

To the bereaved widow and mourning friends we extend our sympathy and mingle our sorrow with theirs.

Men Rooted by Hairpins.

An incident of an amusing character, in which women's hairpins filled the title role, occurred in the course of Governor Roosevelt's visit to Kansas. On reaching the town of Manhattan, in that state, he found a large crowd assembled to greet him, and the men had so completely usurped all the points of vantage that there was no chance for the women, who were gathered in the rear, to catch even an occasional glimpse of what was going on. In vain the women pleaded with the men to get down. They held their positions and resisted all appeals.

In this emergency one young woman shouted to her companions, "Try your hairpins!" In an instant every woman started forward, with her hairpin levelled at the offending and obstinate men. The latter hesitated, but it was only for a moment. As they watched the steady oncoming of the determined phalanx a panic seized them, and they literally tumbled over one another in their efforts to get out of the way.

The rout was complete and ended in the women getting the best seats in the house. And they certainly deserved to have them.—Leslie's Weekly.

Lady Roberts' Trunks.

There is a characteristic story being told about Lady Roberts and her trunks, for which the soldiers now returned from South Africa vouch. At the height of the transport difficulties, to the dismay of irate officials, she carried eight huge trunks from Cape Town to Bloemfontein. Every one wondered what they could possibly have got in the way of luggage, and the weight of luggage through.

The rearrangement of stores had been stopped for the time, the sick and wounded lacked every comfort, and those who were not in the hospital were half starved and half clad. Therefore when a fatigue party was told off to fetch these eight mountainous trunks from Bloemfontein station sleepy cheers were said about "the pleasures of women." But next day seven of the trunks were unpacked and their contents distributed among the "Tommies." The clever lady had supplied her fingers at red tape and had smuggled comforts to the men in this way. One small trunk contained her own modest wardrobe.—Chicago Record.

American Girls.

Is the type of American beauty really changing? Observers say that it is. They declare that not only is the girl of the period growing taller, but that her face is growing a more decided oval. Her hair is darker, brown and that her eyes are more frequently dark than light in color. No one is discussed as frequently and as much as that same girl of a period. A while ago we discovered that her mouth and her foot were larger than that of her grandmother. Later we noticed that she was taller than her mother, and now we are told that her very face is changed. And so shall we account for the fact that her face is more oval than round and not even darker? That is the mystery. Her complexion is darker because she devotes much of her time to outdoor pastimes, but as to the other questions no one can give no suitable answer. The triumphant American girl does not seem as much of an enigma as ever.

Cooked 75 Thanksgiving Dinners.

Mrs. John A. Powers, Mills of Allegany, N. Y., aged 82 years, has cooked 75 Thanksgiving dinners. She was 7 years old when she prepared the first one. Mrs. Mills did other useful things besides cook Thanksgiving dinners, for in 1855, when she was Mrs. John A. Powers, she was a physician and began to practice in the city of Buffalo.

But always on Thanksgiving day she laid aside her professional cares long enough to cook the dinner. On last Thanksgiving she entertained a large party of friends, besides her own family.

The Latest Thing.

The latest hobby in American society is who can prove her claim to owning the best looking cat. For some time past there has been quite a run on costly cats. Mrs. Vanderbilt is said to have set this fashion and proudly declared [illegible] in possession of the most beautiful cat in America. It cost something like $1,000, says Home Chat.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—The closing of the Liverpool and London markets by the queen's death tended to narrow the wheat here. May opened unchanged at 70½c to 70⅝c, touched 70¾c and rallied to 70½c. Northwest receipts were smaller and caused some buying. Local receipts were 33 cars, 2 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 256 cars, against 322 last week and 365 a year ago.

May corn opened a shade lower to unchanged at 25½c to 25¾c, touched 25¾c and rallied to 25¾@25⅞c. Receipts were 356 cars, none of contract grade.

Oats were narrow. May opened unchanged at 24½c to 24c. Receipts were 156 cars.

Provisions opened a trifle easier, but steadied on the steadiness of the hog market. May pork opened a shade lower at $13.77½@13.80 and sold to $13.95. May lard 2½c down at $7.32½@7.35, selling to $7.42½, and May ribs unchanged at $6.90, advancing to $7.02½.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Jan. 23.—The market became exceptionally on realizing and short selling, encouraged by the sharp advances. Declines from the highest reach a point or more in some of the leading railroads and specialties. Exceptional strength in Pressed Steel Car caused an advance of 6½ points to 44 in the common and 3¼ in the preferred. The trading was active and well distributed at the opening and the majority of stocks showed fractional gains. The gains reached 1½ in Baltimore and Ohio and 1½ in St. Paul and about a point each in Federal Steel and Erie. Sugar rose 1¼, but immediately lost all but a small fraction.

The market became hesitating and then yielded. Erie first preferred and Missouri Pacific losing a point each. Bidding up of special stocks caused a rebound in prices and the market became very animated and strong. St. Paul held a conspicuous place in the advance with a gain of 2¼, and gains were made by Tobacco, Lackawanna, Kansas and Texas preferred, Great Northern preferred and Brooklyn Transit of almost 2 points each. Good buying of the Steel stocks lifted Sterling and Pressed Steel Car 1½ and 2¾, respectively. Some of the Pacifics and Sugar rose strongly and the general buying appeared resistless. The general market held above the opening prices, but Missouri Pacific and Wabash preferred were well below last night. Toward midday the advance was resumed, under the leadership of Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, the Atchisons, Erie and People's Gas, all of which touched the highest prices of the morning.

Bonds were generally firm.

MACHINISTS' BALL

FRIENDSHIP LODGE TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

AFFAIR AT MULQUEEN HALL

ORDER NOW ELEVEN YEARS OLD AND PROSPEROUS.

THOMAS MEEGAN GOES WEST

WILL RESIDE IN KANSAS CITY HEREAFTER.

Friendship lodge No. 70, International Association of Machinists, has decided to celebrate its eleventh anniversary in a manner befitting such an occasion. With that object in view preparations for a grand ball to be given on the night of February 18 are now under way. It will take place at Mulqueen hall, and Reineke's orchestra has already been engaged. One of the men on the committee of arrangements said this morning: "Friendship lodge is not aiming at a money-making entertainment. The chief aim is a good, social time for the members and machinists outside the union. We hope to increase an interest in the order, which will result in an increased membership and power for doing good."

AT HALF MAST.

The Nickel Plate flag, on the magnificent flag staff in the west yards, is floating at half mast in honor to the memory of Hon. R. C. Bell, who was the company's attorney from the beginning of the road up to the time of his death, last Monday. Mr. Bell made the chief address at the dedication of the pole and the first unfurling of the fifty-foot flag upon it. He was also one of the largest contributors towards defraying the expense of the pole and flag. The Nickel Plate employes have other cause also for honoring the memory of Mr. Bell. He was known to all of them, and each considered him a personal friend. He did many kindly acts for the "boys," as he called the employes, and they loved him.

WRECK ON FAIRFIELD AVENUE.

The Wabash yardmen and section men had a few troubles of their own at an early hour this morning. Two box cars, a gondola and a "dead" engine in a westbound train left the rails at Fairfield avenue. The entire force was called to the scene, but it was an hour or two before the wheels were replaced on the rails and the tracks cleared. The derailed engine was a massive affair just out of the shops. It belonged to the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern company.

TO KANSAS CITY TO LIVE.

Thomas Meegan bade farewell to Fort Wayne friends this morning and is now en route to Kansas City, which place will be his home hereafter. Mr. Meegan spent nearly a half century in Fort Wayne, and to a Sentinel reporter he said that his associations here had been most pleasant. It is, he said, with feelings of sorrow that he severs them. His wife and children are in Kansas City, and at their earnest solicitation Mr. Meegan is now en route there to join them. He hopes to pay old friends here a visit before many months. Mr. Meegan was shopclerk for the Pennsylvania company from 1863 up to a few years ago, when he was placed upon the retired list.

OBJECTION TO PENSION.

While the majority of railway men approve the pension plan of the Pennsylvania company, there are a few who predict evil results should it spread to all the leading roads of the country. Of this number the Indianapolis Journal cites a prominent railroader and says: "In commenting on the pension plan, a director of the Illinois Central road says the matter has been discussed, but nothing has yet been done. There seems to be much difference of opinion as to the wisdom of these pension schemes. They are supposed to be prompted by philanthropic motive, but many arguments might be advanced to show that the welfare of railway employes is not insured by a plan which, after only thirty years of continuous service, would allow them only a pittance after being forced to retire from work. If all the railroads should adopt the rule included in all the pension plans, not to employ men over thirty or thirty-five years of age, there would soon be an army of unemployed railway men."

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

At a meeting last Sunday, Fort Wayne lodge No. 136, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, adopted resolutions of respect to the memory of their deceased brothers, Frank B. Burk and Charles McNally. The "Bard of the Brotherhood" has embodied the sentiments of the lodge in poetic form into the resolution concerning the death of their brother, Burk. It reads as follows:

From our presence, into the heaven of rest
Dear Brother Burk has passed to dwell with the blest.
He smilingly went from his dear happy home,
Not expecting life's end to be merely a moan.

He was light hearted, cheery and gay,
And hoped ere long to come back to stay,
But it was there he met with that horrible doom,
And now he lies, resting in the silent tomb.

His precious soul has gone to rest.
His spirit fled to the home of the blest,
A voice we loved so much is still,
His place is vacant none else can fill.

We mourn, as do his many friends.
When e're we think how sad life ends.
He is dead, but lives among us yet.
His smiling face we'll never forget.

He was a light, a city on the hill,
His kindly deeds the engine could not kill.
In the lodge room, or on the street,
we never shall meet
The dear loved brother we used to greet.

Help us, dear Lord, this cross to bear,
That in this sorrow all may share.
Comfort that father, and heart broken mother,
Sorrowing wife and children, and also his grief stricken brothers.

Mr. Burk was much loved by us all.
Yet his sweet spirit we would not recall.
He has fought a good fight, and the prize he has won,
And he is now made heir of the Glorified Son.

Resolved, That this testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be spread upon the records of the lodge, and a copy thereof be transmitted to the sorrowing family and friends of our deceased brother and our brother organizations, the B. of L. F., the S. U. of N. A., and our ladies' auxiliary, who showed us so much courtesy, sympathy and support in the death and funeral of our late brother,

J. C. Miller,
C. A. Scott,
E. M. Hall,
Committee.

WRECK AT KIRBY.

A broken draw bar in train 81, on the Pittsburg, caused the wreck of three oil tank cars between Kirby and Upper Sandusky at 10:30 o'clock last night. The accident in itself was not so serious or annoying to the railway management as was the delay to traffic. Passenger trains 2, 8, 15, 5 and 22 were delayed from one to four hours by the blockade, and no freights were able to pass that point for five or six hours. The wreck crew from Crestline was called out to clear the tracks.

FOR A CHILD
who is "not doing well"—the condition occurs now and then with all children.
Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil is a food that begins to build you up at once—of course, it don't show at once.
"Not doing well" means that the child is not getting the good of his food. Not today, or this week; it may have been going on for a month; before it begins to show in the child's condition.
You want him to get back to turning his usual food into strength.
You want the food that begins to build, up at once.
We'll send you a little to try if you like.

LAKE ERIE AND WESTERN.

On March 1 the purchasing department of the Lake Erie & Western will be removed from Indianapolis to Cleveland, and William F. Goltra who has been purchasing agent of the Lake Erie and Western, will remove to Cleveland and take the position of chief clerk of F. H. Green, purchasing agent of the Lake Shore road, which now controls the Lake Erie and Western. The Lake Erie and Western will be greatly improved during the present season; already 17,000 tons of new steel has been purchased and the fastenings for the same. The new steel will weigh seventy-five pounds to the yard, and it is the intention, says President Newman, to place the Lake Erie and Western in condition to compare favorably with the best roads crossing Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

CONDUCTOR BENBOW SICK.

Conductor D. B. Benbow, of the Nickel Plate, was taken quite ill at Knox, Ind., yesterday. He was brought here on train No. 2 this afternoon and taken to Hope hospital. His ailment is not considered of a dangerous character. Mr. Benbow is a member of the Fort Wayne lodge of Elks.

Car Inspector Foreman Steve Schellenberger, of the Pittsburg, is confined to his home by the grip. Other new names on the shop's absentee list are F. Mailing, J. H. Kamm, C. W. Ostemeyer, John A. Rott, J. F. Szink, W. Heuer, William Pepper and F. W. Gardner.

One man has sold seventy tickets to the annual ball of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Another has sold fifty-five tickets. The modesty of these gentlemen has led them to request The Sentinel to withhold their names from publicity. The ball is yet over three weeks distant and the gentlemen referred to say they will have sold 100 tickets each before the day appointed for the event.

Indianapolis Journal: "Of the 257 miles which constitute the western division of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road there are now in service 108 miles of double track. The last of this week the double track will reach Van Wert, and by April 1 140 miles of this division will be double tracked. Within the present year the entire line from Crestline to Chicago will be double tracked."

The collector of customs at San Francisco was recently called upon to decide whether or not a valuable urn should pay duty. The urn contained the ashes of an American citizen who had died abroad, and his remains were being brought home in this shape. After considering the matter for some time the collector decided that the urn and its contents should be admitted. This is the first time that an urn worth several hundred dollars was passed without assessment.

COMMITTEE WILL ORGANIZE

AUDITORIUM PROMOTERS TO MEET THIS EVENING.

Many Sub-Committees to Be Named and Active Work Will Begin at Once.

The auditorium committee recently named by the Fort Wayne Commercial club will hold its first meeting this evening and organize for the campaign that is before it.

Chairman Beers said to The Sentinel this morning that he was not prepared to outline the plan of procedure, for he had not consulted many members of the committee, and until all were on hand and the situation thoroughly discussed, it was impossible to state definitely just what steps would be taken.

"One thing is sure," said Mr. Beers; "we are going to begin active work upon the proposition, and it is intended that the solicitation shall be so thorough as to give every citizen of Fort Wayne an opportunity to assist this enterprise, whether his means be great or small. We want the movement to be a people's movement, and we want the actual support of every citizen. It is likely that a large number of sub-committees will be named—sufficient to look after every avenue that can be reached, and we can hardly excuse any citizen even leaving on a protracted vacation before he has arranged to make his contribution of stock to the enterprise."

LOCAL LINES.

F. W. Powers, of Angola, and C. A. Bisbee of Auburn, are in the city.

R. C. Root has been granted a building permit to erect a [illegible] house on West Jefferson street to cost $1,200.

D. B. Benbow, a carpenter on the Flats, has been [illegible] at Rhode Island and was today brought to this city and taken to Hope hospital.

Miss Ida Wenninghoff, who was operated upon at St. Joseph hospital some weeks ago by Dr. McOscar, has recovered and has been removed to her home at 39 Lavina street.

S. Kariger and Z. Swemberger have sold a house on East DeWald street to Mr. and Mrs. O. Sullivan for $1,650. The sale was made for Z. Lade.

Miss Edith Krapf was pleasantly surprised by a party of friends at her home on East Lewis street in honor of her birthday anniversary. Progressive pedro was the feature of the evening and prizes were won by Miss Rose Buenching and Theodore Kleinsorg, the booby prizes being won by Mrs. Alfred Moll, of Indianapolis, and Mr. Keller.

Some excitement was caused this morning by a runaway team which raised Ned on the Harrison street market for a while. The team belonged to Keller & Braun, the state cutters, and was attached to one of their wagons. The horses came down Pearl street and dashed across Harrison street, narrowly missing a number of pedestrians and some stray teams and went up the alley between Main and Columbia streets. At a point back of the Wayne hotel they collided with a telegraph pole smashed the wagon and slightly injured one of the horses. No one was injured.

The Blackford Law club will hold a meeting this evening at the office of Judge Ninde. The case up is one on breach of contract, with Hon. Allen Zollars sitting as special judge.
